BIOGRAPHY

Harry Wilson, the Chairman and CEO of MAEVA Group, LLC, is a nationally-recognized expert in leading complicated businesses through corporate transformations, in corporate restructurings and in turnarounds.

Mr. Wilson spent his early career as an investor at some of the nation's top financial firms, working primarily to invest in and work to improve companies. Mr. Wilson spent most of his investing career at The Blackstone Group, the world's largest private equity firm, and credit investment fund Silver Point Capital, where he was a partner. Earlier in his career, Mr. Wilson worked at the private equity firm Clayton Dubilier & Rice and in the investment banking division of Goldman, Sachs & Co. Through these roles, Mr. Wilson led complicated transactions, as an investor, advisor or board member, across a broad range of industries and geographies, working closely with senior management. These transactions typically involved operational or financial restructurings; significant acquisitions or asset sales; and strategic transitions at the company.

In 2009, Mr. Wilson served as a Senior Advisor in the United States Department of the Treasury. He worked as one of the four leaders of the Auto Task Force, responsible for the Treasury's role in the restructuring of General Motors and Chrysler. Mr. Wilson led a team that was responsible for the business and financial work of the Task Force and also led a team overseeing the financial and operational restructuring of General Motors, the largest in American history.

In 2010, Mr. Wilson was the Republican nominee for New York State Comptroller (effectively the chief financial officer of the state), running on a platform to fix New York's finances. In his first political campaign, Mr. Wilson's honest, data-driven approach won him bipartisan accolades, secured the support of nearly every editorial board in the state (an unprecedented feat for a challenger), and attracted approximately 2.1 million votes in a narrow loss to the incumbent, delivering arguably the best Republican statewide challenger showing in New York since 1994.

Currently, Mr. Wilson is the Chairman, CEO and founder of The MAEVA Group, LLC, a boutique founded in 2011 and focused on investing in or leading corporate transformations, restructurings and strategic transitions. MAEVA's particular niche is developing and leading operational and/or financial change that can significantly transform a business and leave it much better positioned to compete and thrive in the future.

Mr. Wilson currently serves on the boards of directors of Visteon Corporation and YRC Worldwide and recently completed a term of service on the board of Yahoo!.

Mr. Wilson has an A.B. in government, with honors, from Harvard College and an MBA from Harvard Business School. He and his wife of 16 years, Eva Romas Wilson, have four daughters and reside in Westchester County, NY.
