

Nova James Daly, Senior Advisor, Wiley Rein LLP

Nova J. Daly is an international investment, trade and national security expert who has held senior leadership positions at the White House, the U.S. Departments of the Treasury and Commerce, and the U.S. Senate. As the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Investment Security and Policy at Treasury from 2006-2009, Mr. Daly was responsible for the operation of the Committee on Foreign Investment in the U.S. (CFIUS). In that capacity he managed efforts of more than 16 U.S. agencies and departments, a team of 20 professionals at Treasury, and operated under tight deadlines on high-pressured and highly political transactions.

Prior to Treasury, Mr. Daly served at the White House in the National Security Council as the Director for International Trade where he handled multiple trade and investment and national security policy matters, including trade law enforcement and sanctions policy. Mr. Daly also served as the Senior Advisor for Trade Policy to the Secretary of Commerce and worked for the U.S. Senate Finance Committee. Mr. Daly served as member of the Trump Administration's Trade Transition Team.

Mr. Daly has been with Wiley Rein for over 14 years and represents clients on national security, sanctions, trade, and arbitration and has achieved numerous successful outcomes for clients with national and global impact.

He holds an undergraduate degree in political science from the University of California, Irvine and a graduate degree in international law and organizations from American University.