

David Dunlow Bio

David Dunlow has been farming since 1985 and is the son of a farmer and grandson of a sharecropper. David, and his son William, farm 3,800 acres of cotton, peanuts, soybeans, and wheat.

David has been a longtime advocate of the U.S. cotton industry and is current Chairman of the American Cotton Producers, the voice of the producer segment within the National Cotton Council. He is a Producer Director on the NCC Board and sits on the NCC Executive Committee. David is also Past Present of Southern Cotton Growers and North Carolina Cotton Producers.

David and his wife Debra have been married for 36 years and are members of Roanoke Rapids First Pentecostal Holiness Church where David serves as a deacon. They have three children William (33), Daniel (30), and Elizabeth (26). They have two grandchildren, Hank (4) and Clyde (2).