The organization I am representing, the Civil War Trust, receives very little direct federal grant money, except for the $327,470 in American Battlefield Protection Program planning grants, noted below. However, the Trust is very active in applying for federal grant money for land acquisition (either fee-simple acquisition or acquisition of easements). This money does not go directly to the Trust; the federal grant program we use requires a state or local governmental entity to serve as the recipient of the grant. That government entity then partners with the Civil War Trust on the acquisition of the land.

That grant program is the American Battlefield Protection Program's land acquisition grants program financed through the Land and Water Conservation Fund. Since FY 2013, 35 grants have been awarded or obligated as a result of the efforts of the Civil War Trust totaling $7,441,976.
