

David Omar Kills A Hundred is Trustee II on the Flandreau Santee Sioux Tribe Executive Committee, and has served in that position since August of 2016. David was born and raised around the Flandreau Santee Sioux Reservation headquartered in Flandreau, South Dakota. David has worked for the Flandreau Santee Sioux Tribe since he was 18 in various capacities. He has worked extensively for the Royal River Casino and Hotel in departments ranging from hotel housekeeping to the position of a slot technician. David was a Graphic Designer for a newspaper the Tribe owned called The Dakota Lakota Journal, and won several South Dakota Newspaper Awards for political cartoons and newspaper topography. David's main goals in his elected capacity have been to foster the relationship between the Tribe and state and federal governments, to increase the economic holdings of the Tribe, and increase transparency between the Tribe's elected officials and its membership.
