

BIO OF MARK WOLFE

---

Mark Wolfe serves as the Executive Director of the National Energy Assistance Directors' Association (NEADA), representing the state directors of the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP). NEADA is the primary educational and policy organization representing state low-income energy directors. As part of his responsibilities, Mr. Wolfe directs all activities including representing NEADA before the Congress and Administration, developing and administering policy research activities and managing NEADA national outreach and education programs.

Mr. Wolfe also directs the activities of the Energy Programs Consortium (EPC), an energy policy research organization sponsored by NEADA and three other national organizations representing state energy program and regulatory officials. As part of his responsibilities, he is currently directing a national demonstration program to develop secondary market for unsecured energy efficiency loans. The project is sponsored by the National Association of State Energy Officials, National Energy Assistance Directors' Association and the National Association of Regulatory Utility Officials.

He has testified before Congress and is frequently cited in the national media on energy affordability and pricing issues. Previous positions have included serving as a Senior Advisor to the US Treasury Department, Deputy Director for the Coalition of Northeastern Governors and Senior Analyst for the Congressional Research Service.

Mr. Wolfe has a M.S. degree in Public Policy from the State University of New York and a B.A. in Urban Studies from Antioch College.