

DANIEL L. ZIMMERMAN

Assistant Secretary of War for International Security Affairs, Office of the Under Secretary of War for Policy

Daniel Zimmerman has been honored to serve in a variety of roles focused on promoting U.S. national security. During President Trump's first term, he worked at the White House for then-Senior Advisor Jared Kushner on the Abraham Accords. He has served as a national security advisor for Senator Bill Hagerty, as a briefer for the President's Daily Brief, and alongside U.S. warfighters in the warzone. ASW Zimmerman served 16 years in the CIA on energy, cyber threats, and regional affairs.

ASW Zimmerman is a zealous North Carolina native and has studied at the Patterson School of International Commerce and Diplomacy, Oxford University, and Asbury University.
