

Bartlett Naylor is financial policy counsel in Public Citizen's Congress Watch division.

Naylor is an expert on corporate governance, financial markets and shareholder rights

Background:

- Consultant, Capital Strategies Consulting, Inc,
- Director, Office of Corporate Affairs, Teamsters Union,
- Chief of Investigations, U.S Senate Banking Committee,

Media Appearances: Naylor has been quoted in the Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Washington Post, Daerings Navingslv, El Mercurio, among other media.

Longer version

Bartlett Naylor is financial policy advocate in Public Citizen's Congress Watch division, helping to promote responsible reform of the nation's financial sector. Naylor is an expert on corporate governance, financial markets and shareholder rights.

Naylor has testified before Congress, appeared on CNN, MSNBC, and has been quoted in such publications as the Wall Street Journal, New York Times, and Washington Post, along with numerous international publications such as Oslo's Daerings Navingslv and El Mercurio of Santiago, Chile.

Previously, Naylor served as chief of investigations for the U.S. Senate Banking Committee. He was also director of the Teamsters Office of Corporate Affairs, and a consultant with Capital Strategies Consulting, Inc. which engages with key constituents of large corporations on behalf of progressive organizations. He was director of the Teamsters Office of Corporate Affairs, where he promoted shareholder activism. As chief of investigations for the U.S. Senate Banking Committee, he led probes in financial fraud, insider trading, and banking abuse.

Publications include Too Big, The Almighty Dollar, and Committing Crimes Abroad.

Mr. Naylor received his A.B. from Harvard University and an MBA from Golden Gate University.