

Nadine M. Jarmon, PhD

Dr. Nadine Jarmon is an industry-recognized expert in the recovery of troubled housing authority agencies. She has 30 years of direct experience at some of the largest and most troubled agencies in the nation. She has written and presented at national conferences on various topics impacting housing authorities.

Jarmon is an Arkansas native hailing from Conway, AR. She has worked in the affordable housing arena since 1994. She worked as an independent consultant for the Louisville (KY), West Chester (PA), and Gary (IN) housing agencies. She held executive director positions in New Orleans (pre and post Hurricane Katrina), in Baton Rouge (LA), Deerfield Beach, (FL) and presently at the Little Rock (AR) Housing Authority.

Jarmon has a master's degree in public administration and a doctorate degree in urban and public affairs from the University of Texas-Arlington, a master's degree in business administration from the University of Houston, and a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Central Arkansas. She also completed a two-year fellowship at Yale University as a HUD Community Renaissance Fellow.