

McKeever Conwell, II - Short Bio

McKeever “Mac” Conwell II is a software engineer by trade and was a former DOD contractor with a top-secret clearance. He was a two-time founder with an exit and a failure. Next Mac moved on to the venture capital world via the Maryland Technology Development Corporation as part of their Seed Investment Team. During his four years there, Mac amassed experience leading an initiative to create the first and only, at the time, state-backed pre-seed fund for women and minorities in the country; known as the Builder Fund. Mac went on to found RareBreed Ventures in 2020 which was mostly raised on Twitter. Since the launch of RareBreed Ventures, Mac has invested in 47 companies in 30+ verticals in 17 states and in 4 countries to create a truly diversified portfolio.
