

Andrew Olmem is Co-Chair of Mayer Brown LLP's Financial Regulatory Group and is the Managing Partner of its Washington DC office. His practice focuses on complex financial regulatory matters and investigations. Previously, he served as Deputy Assistant to the President for Economic Policy and the Deputy Director of the White House National Economic Council. He also served as the Republican Chief Counsel and Deputy Staff Director at the US Senate Banking Committee. He served on the Committee during its consideration of the Dodd-Frank Act.