

Tracy Watts

Tracy Watts is a Senior Partner and US Leader for Healthcare Policy at Mercer. She advises large employers on their health benefit strategies for active and retired employees. A consultant with Mercer for over 35 years, she's widely quoted as a spokesperson for Mercer's survey of employer sponsored health benefit plans and is a lead contributor on Mercer's US Health News blog.

Tracy is a past Board Chair of the American Benefits Council and a member of the Business Advisory Council for the Health Action Alliance. She also serves on the Steering Committee for the Alliance to Fight for Health Care, a broad based coalition comprised of public and private sector employer organizations, unions, health care companies, businesses and other stakeholders that support employer-sponsored health coverage. She frequently represents employer interests to policymakers in Washington DC and has testified before Congress on several occasions. In 2018, Tracy was named a "Top 25 Consultant" for excellence in healthcare by Consulting® Magazine.
