

Morgyn Wynne is a former softball student-athlete from Oklahoma State University, who graduated with a bachelor's degree in Strategic Communications and a minor in Sport Management. In her time at Oklahoma State, Morgyn has served as a member of the student-athlete advisory committee executive team, helped her team win the 2022 Big 12 championship, and competed at the 2022 and 2023 Women's College World Series in back-to-back seasons, and ended her career hitting a homerun in her final at bat. Throughout her college career, not only has Morgyn performed on the field as a two-time All-Conference and All-Region athlete, but also in the classroom as a three-time All-Big 12 first team academic athlete and a 2023 Academic All-American. Since graduating, Morgyn continues to display her leadership and advocacy skills, formerly serving as Division 1 Student-Athlete Advisory Committee Chair in 2023 and currently as the student-athlete voting member on the NCAA Board of Governors. Morgyn is in the final semester of her Master's degree in Higher Education and Student Affairs, with a focus in Educational Leadership. She currently works as the Assistant Director of Donor Benefits at Oklahoma State. Her experiences within the governance structure of athletics at the institutional, conference, and national level have helped her define her future career goals in collegiate athletic administration.
