

Brandon J. Rees
Deputy Director, Corporations and Capital Markets
American Federation of Labor and
Congress of Industrial Organizations

Brandon Rees is the Deputy Director of Corporations and Capital Markets for the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations (AFL-CIO). The AFL-CIO is a federation of labor unions that represent 15 million working people. Brandon Rees also serves as the Supervisory Committee Chair of the AFL-CIO Employees Federal Credit Union and a leadership team member for the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility's Advancing Worker Justice program. He has previously served as a trustee of the AFL-CIO Staff Retirement Plan, the Shareholder Advocacy Committee Co-Chair of the Council of Institutional Investors, and as a member of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board's standing advisory group. He received his B.A. in Economics and J.D. from U.C. Berkeley.