HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS,
Washington, DC.

The committee met, pursuant to notice, at 10:07 a.m., in room 2712, Rayburn House Office Building, Hon. Ed Royce (chairman of the committee) presiding.

Chairman ROYCE. The committee will come to order.

Pursuant to notice, we meet today to mark up four strongly bipartisan measures by the committee here. And because there are four other full committee markups going on at this same time and because these measures enjoy such broad support here on the committee, the ranking member and I intend to proceed according to the expedited procedure e-mailed to your offices yesterday.

So, without objection, all members may have 5 days to submit statements for the record and any extraneous materials on today's items.

And I now call up H.R. 4490.

The clerk will report the bill.

Ms. MARTER. H.R. 4490, a bill to enhance the missions, objectives, and effectiveness of United States international communications, and for other purposes. Be it enacted—

Chairman ROYCE. So, without objection, the bill is considered read.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND DECLARATIONS.

2 Congress finds and declares the following:

3 (1) United States international broadcasting ex-
4 ists to advance the United States interests and val-
5 ues by presenting accurate, objective, and com-
6 prehensive news and information, which is the foun-
7 dation for democratic governance, to societies that
8 lack a free media.

9 (2) Article 19 of the Universal Declaration of 10 Human Rights states that “[e]veryone has the right
11 to freedom of opinion and expression”, and that 12 “this right includes freedom to hold opinions without 13 interference and to seek, receive and impart infor-
14 mation and ideas through any media and regardless
15 of frontiers”.

16 (3) Secretary of State Hillary Clinton testified
17 before the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the

1 House of Representatives on January 23, 2013, that
2 the Broadcasting Board of Governors (BBG) “is
3 practically a defunct agency in terms of its capacity
4 to be able to tell a message around the world. So
5 we’re abdicating the ideological arena and need to 6 get back into it.”.

7 (4) The BBG, which was created by Congress
8 to oversee the United States international broad-
9 casting in the wake of the Cold War, has, because
10 of structural and managerial issues, had limited suc-
11 cess to date in both coordinating the various compo-
12 nents of the international broadcasting framework
13 and managing the day-to-day operations of the Fed-
14 eral components of the international broadcasting
15 framework.

16 (5) The lack of regular attendance by board
17 members and a periodic inability to form a quorum
18 have plagued the BBG and, as a result, it has been 19 functionally incapable of running the agency.

20 (6) The board of governors has only achieved
21 the full slate of all nine governors for seven of its 22 17 years of existence, which highlights the difficul-
23 ties of confirming and retaining governors under the 24 current structure.

1 (7) Both the Department of State's Office of
2 Inspector General and the Government Account-
3 ability Office have issued reports which outline a se-
4 verely dysfunctional organizational structure of the 5 Broadcasting Board of Governors.

6 (8) The Inspector General of the Department of
7 State concluded in its January 2013 report that dys-
8 function of the BBG stems from "a flawed legisla-
9 tive structure and acute internal dissension".

10 (9) The Inspector General of the Department of 11 State also found that the BBG's structure of nine
12 part-time members "cannot effectively supervise all
13 United States Government-supported, civilian inter-
14 national broadcasting", and its involvement in day-
15 to-day operations has impeded normal management
16 functions.

17 (10) The Government Accountability Office re-
18 port determined that there was significant overlap
19 among the BBG's languages services, and that the 20 BBG did not systematically consider the financial 21 cost of overlap.

22 (11) According to the Office of the Inspector
23 General, the BBG's Office of Contracts is not in 24 compliance with the Federal Acquisition Regulation,
25 lacks appropriate contract oversight, and violates the

1 Anti-Deficiency Act. The Office of the Inspector
2 General also determined that the Broadcasting
3 Board of Governors has not adequately performed
4 full and open competitions or price determinations,
5 has entered into hundreds of personal service con-
6 tracts without statutory authority, and contractors
7 regularly work without valid contracts in place.

8 (12) The size and make-up of the BBG work-
9 force should be closely examined, given the agency's
10 broader broadcasting and technical mission, as well
11 as changing media technologies.

12 (13) The BBG should be structured to ensure
13 that more taxpayer dollars are dedicated to the sub-
14 stantive, broadcasting, and information-related ele-
15 ments of the agency's mission.

16 (14) The lack of a coherent and well defined
17 mission of the Voice of America has led to program-
18 ming that duplicates the efforts of the Office of 19 Cuba Broadcasting, Radio Free Asia, RFE/RL, In-
20 corporated, and the Middle East Broadcasting Net-
21 work that results in inefficient use of tax-payer
22 funding.

23 (15) The annual survey conducted by the 24 "Partnership for Public Service" consistently ranks
25 the Broadcasting Board of Governors at or near the

1 bottom of all Federal agencies in terms of “overall
2 best places to work” and “the extent to which em-
3 ployees feel their skills and talents are used effec-
4 tively.”. The consistency of these low scores point to 5 structural, cultural, and functional problems at the 6 Broadcasting Board of Governors.

7 (16) The Federal and non-Federal organiza-
8 tions that comprise the United States international
9 broadcasting framework have different, yet com-
10 plementary, missions that necessitate coordination at 11 all levels of management.

12 (17) The Broadcasting Board of Governors has 13 an overabundance of senior civil service positions,
14 defined here as full-time employees encumbering
15 GS-14 and GS-15 positions on the General Sched-
16 ule pay scale.

17 (18) United States international broadcasting
18 should seek to leverage public-private partnerships,
19 including the licensing of content and the use of 20 technology owned or operated by non-governmental
21 sources, where possible to expand outreach capacity.

22 (19) Congressional action is necessary at this
23 time to improve international broadcasting oper-
24 ations, strengthen the United States public diplo-
25 macy efforts, enhance the grantee surrogate broad-

1 casting effort, restore focus to news, programming,
2 and content, and maximize the value of Federal and
3 non-Federal resources that are dedicated to public
4 diplomacy and international broadcasting.

5 SEC. 3. PURPOSES.

6 The purposes of this Act are as follows:

7 (1) To provide objective, accurate, credible, and
8 comprehensive news and information to societies
9 that lack freedom of expression and information.

10 (2) To improve the efficiency, effectiveness, and 11 flexibility of United States international broad-
12 casting to allow it to adapt to constantly changing
13 political and media environments through clarifica-
14 tion of missions, improved coordination, and organi-
15 zational restructuring.

16 (3) To coordinate the complementary efforts of 17 the Department of State and United States inter-
18 national broadcasting.

19 (4) To create a United States international
20 broadcasting framework that more effectively
21 leverages the broadcasting tools available and cre-
22 ates specialization of expertise in mission oriented
23 programming, while minimizing waste and ineffi-
24 ciency.

1 (5) To improve United States international
2 broadcasting workforce effectiveness, security, and
3 satisfaction.

4 SEC. 4. DEFINITIONS.

5 In this Act:

6 (1) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMIT-
7 TEES.—The term “appropriate congressional com-
8 mittees” means the Committee on Foreign Affairs of 9 the House of Representatives, the Committee on 10 Foreign Relations of the Senate, the Committee on 11 Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and 12 the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate.

13 (2) GRANTEE.—The term “grantee” means the 17 as of day before the date of the enactment of this 18 Act that receives Federal funding from the Broad-

19 casting Board of Governors, and includes Radio
20 Free Asia, RFE/RL, Incorporated, and the Middle 21 East Broadcasting Network.

22 (3) FREEDOM NEWS NETWORK.—The term
23 “Freedom News Network” refers to the non-Federal 24 organization described in section 501(e)(3) of the 25 Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and exempt from tax

1 under section 501(a) of such Code that would re-
2 ceive Federal funding and be responsible for pro-
3 moting democratic freedoms and free media oper-
4 ations for foreign audiences in societies that lack
5 freedom of expression and information, and con-
6 sisting of the consolidation of the grantee in accord-
7 ance with section 211.

8 (4) PUBLIC DIPLOMACY.—The term “public di-
9 plomacy” means the effort to achieve broad United
10 States foreign policy goals and objectives, advance
11 national interests, and enhance national security by 12 informing and influencing foreign publics and by ex-
13 panding and strengthening the relationship between 14 the people and Government of the United States and 15 citizens of other countries.

16 SEC. 5. BROADCASTING STANDARDS.

17 United States international broadcasting shall incor-
18 porate the following standards into all of its broadcasting
19 efforts:

20 (1) Be consistent with the broad foreign policy
21 objectives of the United States.

9 mation, both quantitative and qualitative, about its 10 potential audience.

11 (6) Be designed so as to effectively reach a sig-
12 nificant audience.

13 (7) Promote freedom of expression, religion,
14 and respect for human rights and human equality.

15 SEC. 6. ELIGIBLE BROADCAST AREAS.

16 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Board of the United States
17 International Communications Agency and the Board of 18 the Freedom News Network shall ensure that United 19 States international broadcasting is conducted only to 20 countries and regions that—

21 (1) lack democratic rule, or the indicia of demo-
22 cratic rule, such as demonstrable proof of free and 23 fair elections;

24 (2) lack the legal and political environment that
25 allows media organizations and journalists to oper-

1 ate free from Government-led or permitted harass-
2 ment, intimidation, retribution, and from economic
3 impediments to the development, production, and 4 dissemination of news and related programming and 5 content;

6 (3) lack established, domestic, and widely acces-
7 sible media that provide accurate, objective, and 8 comprehensive news and related programming and

10 (4) by virtue of the criteria described in this 11 subsection, would benefit the national security and 12 related interests of the United States, and the safety

14 abroad.

15 (b) EXCEPTION.—The United States International
16 Communications Agency and the Freedom News Network
17 may broadcast to countries that fall outside of the criteria

20 sultation with the Secretary of State, determine it is in 21 the national security interest of the United States, or in 22 the interests of preserving the safety and security of 23 United States citizens at home and abroad, to do so.

Chairman ROYCE. And I now recognize members for opening remarks on this bill, beginning with myself and beginning with the ranking member.

And so let me begin by thanking Eliot Engel for his work in moving this bipartisan bill forward. The two of us and others on the committee have just returned from Ukraine, and that visit, I think for all of us, underscored the need to reform U.S. international broadcasting. Traveling to eastern Ukraine, our delegation witnessed the Russian propaganda machine, which is now in overdrive, and the attempts by Russia to undermine regional stability. The Russian closure of local Ukrainian radio and television stations, the jamming of uncensored sources of information into the country—all of this demands an effective response. This committee recently worked on legislation, signed into law, to ramp up programming into Ukraine.

But unfortunately, U.S. broadcasters—the Voice of America, Radio Free Europe, Radio Free Asia, and others—are competing with a hand tied behind their back. And that is because the bureaucratic structure over the top of these radios, the Broadcasting Board of Governors, the BBG as it is known, that structure is broken.

So while our enemies are working right now 24/7 on their public information campaigns, the organization at the helm of ours meets once a month—once a month—and often doesn't have a quorum. And that is a recipe for failure. And if we think about some of the witnesses we have heard on this subject, then-Secretary Clinton told this committee last year that the BBG, in her words, is “practically defunct.” Reports from the Inspector General and the GAO have agreed, as does nearly everyone with experience in this field, Republicans or Democrats.

This legislation makes dramatic changes to the current organization by clarifying the missions of our U.S. international broadcasters, consolidating six organizations into two.

One organization, the United States International Communications Agency, will remain a Federal entity and will consist of the Voice of America and the associated technical services our broadcasters depend on. And we make clear that the mission of the Voice of America is to “present the policies of the United States clearly and effectively,” exactly as was intended.

Radio Free Europe, Radio Free Asia, and the Middle East Broadcasting Network, the so-called surrogates, have, of course, a very different mission: To provide uncensored local news and information to people in closed societies and to be “a megaphone for internal advocates of freedom.” So whether it is in Iran or North Korea or elsewhere, that is the intention of these surrogate broadcasts. And these freedom broadcasters, as they are known, will keep their names but consolidate into a private, nonprofit corporation that will become the Freedom News Network.

Both the U.S. International Communications Agency and Freedom News Network will now have empowered CEOs at the helm and purely advisory boards. Ripping away the bureaucracy will reduce administrative overlap and allow both organizations to thrive. This legislation also mandates important reforms to the contracting practices of the BBG and increases public-private partnerships.

Unlike decades past, today's media landscape is highly competitive. Other countries are sprinting forward; we are still standing still. If we are going to adapt, we need a more effective and efficient use of our finite resources, which this legislation lays out through its mission clarification and management reform.

And, again, I want to thank Ranking Member Engel, who I now turn to for his remarks.

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Chairman, thank you for holding this markup of bipartisan legislation, as you mentioned, that will enhance the ability of the United States to facilitate the free flow of information and share our values with people around the world.

Let me say firstly, Mr. Chairman, it was a pleasure to travel with you on our recent trip to Ukraine. We saw firsthand that the competition of ideas and the battle for hearts and minds are alive and well.

Over the past few months, Moscow has used its state-controlled media to broadcast totally baseless propaganda that has been used as a pretext for Russia's invasion of Crimea and its destabilizing activities in eastern Ukraine.

But Ukraine is far from the only place where objective news is in demand. In Iran, the regime closely controls the free flow of information and has actively jammed U.S. satellite transmissions. And in North Korea, the regime locks radios on certain frequencies to prevent people from listening to the Voice of America and Radio Free Asia.

Unfortunately, our efforts to disseminate objective news to societies that lack a free media are not as effective as they should be. Last year, a report by the State Department Inspector General found that the Broadcasting Board of Governors, the agency that currently oversees all U.S. international broadcasting, was "failing in its mandated duties" due to a flawed structure and strong internal dissension.

The bill that Chairman Royce and I introduced with support from many of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle will help fix this structure by improving management, enhancing coordination among the different broadcasting entities, and empowering journalists and editors to produce high-quality programming that keeps pace with the rapidly changing international media landscape.

Specifically, the legislation creates a chief executive officer to manage the day-to-day operations of the new U.S. International Communications Agency, an umbrella organization for Voice of America and Office of Cuba Broadcasting. And it also creates a CEO to run the Freedom News Network, a new organization comprised of the three existing private grantees, which are Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty, Radio Free Asia, and the Middle East Broadcasting Networks.

The bill also defines the missions of VOA and the Freedom News Network to reduce the duplication of programming and requires robust coordination between the Federal and private entities, including the sharing of content and strategic plans to maximize efficiency. Under the new organizational structure, Voice of America (VOA), the flagship of U.S. broadcasting for more than 50 years, will remain the primary source of information about the United States and our culture, while the three grantees that form the Freedom News Network will continue to provide news to audiences about developments in their own countries.

Only by working closely together will these broadcasters be effective in providing comprehensive news and information to those who need it most. When I was recently with Chairman Royce in the eastern part of Ukraine, we met a lot of people who said that they really would welcome more information from the United States, that they really don't get the balanced type of information. And we know Radio Free Europe and others are the ones that helped the Soviet Union collapse. And so this is a really smart thing for us to do.

Lastly, and perhaps most importantly, this bill maintains the requirement that U.S.-funded programming serve as an objective source of news and information and not simply as a mouthpiece for U.S. foreign policy. It is absolutely critical that the news be accurate and seen as credible by the foreign audiences we are trying to reach.

So, Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank you again for holding this important markup and really for your leadership over the course of many years on international broadcasting issues. This is one ball that you have run with for many years, even before you were chairman of this committee, and it is very much noticed and very much appreciated. And I also would like to thank you for working with us on this legislation in a bipartisan manner.

I have some votes in my other committee, so I may be in and out. But this legislation is so important and should be passed with no dissension because I think this is the type of legislation that this committee can be proud of, again, on a bipartisan basis.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Engel.

I will ask now if any other members seek recognition on the underlying bill.

Hearing none, we will now move to the en bloc amendment package that was sent to members' offices yesterday.

Chairman ROYCE. And before recognizing other members to speak, I again want to thank the ranking member for working with me on the manager's amendment, which includes a number of post-introduction corrections, technical changes, and other housekeeping matters. And, among other things, it makes it clear that the United States International Communications Agency is a Federal organization and requires a plan to consolidate the Voice of America and the International Broadcasting Bureau into that new entity.

It also reiterates the mandate that the broadcasters share their content with each other and requires the development of a joint plan to determine how language services will be affected by the clarified organizational missions.

Do any members seek recognition to speak on any of the en bloc items?

Mr. Lowenthal?

Mr. LOWENTHAL. Thank you, Mr. Chair. And I want to thank you and the ranking member for bringing this important bill forward and also for leading our congressional delegation to Ukraine. It was an amazing, an amazing trip, where we learned a great, great deal.

That trip to Ukraine only further affirmed to me the importance of international broadcasting programs and what a great impact they can have in regions that are desperately crying out for independent news sources.

My amendment simply adds the following text to the findings of this bill: "Shortwave broadcasting has been an important method of communication that should be utilized in regions as a component of the United States international broadcasting where a critical need for the platform exists."

One of these absolutely critical regions is southeastern Asia and specifically Vietnam, which is a one-party, Communist state that has no freedom of the press. Its people rely upon the trusted news provided by Radio Free Asia, delivered by shortwave broadcasting, a media that reaches millions of people who would otherwise be uninformed of events in their country.

International broadcasting and shortwave in particular are key components in promoting democratic societies and for keeping pressure on totalitarian regimes to respect the fundamental human rights of their own people. This amendment reiterates our support for shortwave broadcasting and allows the United States to continue a diversified portfolio of broadcasting to underserved peoples across the globe.

Thank you, Mr. Chair, and I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Lowenthal.

Mr. KEATING. Mr. Chairman?

Chairman ROYCE. Mr. Keating?

Mr. KEATING. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I would like to strike the last word.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank you and Ranking Member Engel for your leadership on this important reform initiative that I have proudly cosponsored with you.

Public diplomacy efforts are critical to our Nation's security, prosperity, and image abroad. Oftentimes, a program on Alhurra TV or a tweet from Radio Free Europe may be the only direct communication an individual overseas may receive from our country.

In fact, yesterday alone, the Prime Minister from Latvia was here speaking to some of our Members, and she mentioned no less than three times about the increase in Russian propaganda on Russian-speaking people in her population.

In a world where so such information exists particularly about U.S. interests in society, it is important that we do not only put our best face forward as a country but demonstrate our commitment to the truth and freedom of expression in media, as well.

I am pleased that my amendment to prioritize the delivery of information and programming to isolated women and minority populations overseas is included in the en bloc package.

Recently, Mr. Chairman, you and I held a hearing on the nexus between promoting education for women and girls and countering violent extremism. This amendment is a byproduct of that hearing and will help close the gap by encouraging more outreach and public-private partnerships to reach women in isolated communities and in some cases assist in increasing their access to education and uncensored information sources.

In this way, we will not only be relaying a vision of democracy to other Nations, but we will actually be helping to build such societies by strengthening the civil society engagement and outreach itself.

Mr. Chairman, I am pleased that the committee has agreed to include the access to education as a primary component to the democratic ideals the Freedom News Network aims to support in its report. And I hope that all of us as colleagues will join together in supporting this commonsense provision in the en bloc amendment.

And I yield back my time.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Keating.

Any other members seeking recognition?

Hearing none, the question occurs on the en bloc amendment.

All those in favor, say aye.

All those opposed, no.

In the opinion of the Chair, the ayes have it, and the en bloc amendments are agreed to.

Are there any additional amendments to H.R. 4490?

Hearing no further amendments, the question now occurs on agreeing to H.R. 4490 as amended.

All those in favor, say aye.

All opposed, no.

In the opinion of the Chair, the ayes have it. The bill as amended is agreed to.

And, without objection, H.R. 4490 as amended is ordered favorably reported as a single amendment in the nature of a substitute. Staff is directed to make any technical and conforming changes.

And we now move to the remaining three measures, which we will consider en bloc together with the bipartisan amendments provided to your offices yesterday.

Without objection, the following items, which all members have before them, are considered read and will be considered en bloc: H.R. 4028, To amend the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998 to include the desecration of cemeteries . . .; Collins Amendment No. 44 to H.R. 4028; House Resolution 520, Calling for an end to attacks on Syrian civilians and expanded humanitarian access; Royce Amendment 101 in the nature of a substitute to House Resolution 520; House Concurrent Resolution 51, calling for the establishment of a Syrian war crimes tribunal; and the Smith Amendment No. 51 in the nature of a substitute to House Concurrent Resolution 51.

113TH CONGRESS
2D SESSION

H. RES. 520

Calling for an end to attacks on Syrian civilians and expanded humanitarian access.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MARCH 14, 2014

Mr. ROYCE (for himself and Mr. ENGEL) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs

RESOLUTION

Calling for an end to attacks on Syrian civilians and expanded humanitarian access.

Whereas March 2014 marks the third year of the crisis in Syria, which has resulted in the world's largest ongoing humanitarian disaster, and the urgent need for a resolution to the conflict;

Whereas Bashar al-Assad and supporting militias, including Hezbollah, continue to carry out sectarian mass atrocities, which have included mass targeted killings, mass graves, the extermination of entire families, including their children, incidents of ethnic cleansing, sexual violence, widespread torture, aerial bombardment of residential areas, and otherwise forced displacement of certain Syrian civilians especially from areas in western Syria where Assad is attempting to increase the dominance of his own loyalists;

Whereas the United States Government should not continue to officially recognize a regime that is guilty of such vicious abuses of basic human rights on such a vast scale;

Whereas the United States Department of State took appropriate action on March 5, 2014, in restricting the movements of Assad's loyal representative to the United Nations, Bashar al-Jaafari, to within a 25-mile radius of New York City;

Whereas approximately 140,000 people have been killed, including more than 11,000 children, many more have been seriously wounded, and civilian casualties continue to mount as widespread and systematic attacks on schools, hospitals, and other civilian facilities persist in violation of international norms and principles;

Whereas the United Nations has registered more than 2,500,000 Syrian refugees who have fled to neighboring countries, while regional governments and the United Nations estimate that the total number of refugees already has reached more than 3,000,000;

Whereas the United Nations expects the total refugee count to reach over 4,000,000 Syrians by the end of 2014;

Whereas approximately half of Syrian refugees are children, including nearly 500,000 under the age of 5, and thousands have been separated from their parents and are especially vulnerable to abuse and exploitation;

Whereas the United Nations estimates that over 9,000,000 civilians are in need of humanitarian assistance within Syria, more than 40 percent of the country's total population, including 6,500,000 internally displaced persons;

Whereas Bashar al-Assad's forces, supporting militias, and other parties to the conflict are systematically blocking humanitarian aid delivery, including food and medical care, from many civilian areas in violation of international norms and principles;

Whereas the United Nations estimates that 3,000,000 Syrians are trapped in hard-to-reach or besieged areas, with an estimated 250,000 cut off from assistance for over a year;

Whereas the crisis has worsened already difficult conditions for Syrian women and girls, who are especially vulnerable to economic hardship and gender-based violence, including early marriage, forced marriage, trafficking, sexual violence, or the fear of sexual violence;

Whereas over 5,000,000 children affected by the conflict desperately need food, clean water, shelter, and medical care;

Whereas millions of Syrian children have been forced out of school, and an entire generation of young Syrians are being shaped by violence, displacement, and persistent lack of opportunity and are therefore at high risk of exploitation, life-long underdevelopment, and radicalization;

Whereas the World Health Organization estimates that 70 percent of Syria's medical professionals, up to 80,000 people, have fled the country, while remaining professionals are deliberately targeted by parties to the conflict;

Whereas regional states, including Jordan, Lebanon, Turkey, Egypt and Iraq, are hosting well over 2,000,000 refugees;

Whereas despite the attention and resources refugee camps receive, most refugees from Syria, 83 percent regionally, do not live in formal refugee camps but rather among host communities where resources and services, including health, water and sanitation, electricity, and other systems are strained at the municipal and national level;

Whereas many members of the Syrian-American community, especially medical professionals, have generously donated their time and money, while taking great personal risk, in heroic efforts to reach those in need inside Syria with humanitarian assistance;

Whereas the United Nations launched its largest appeal in its history for a single humanitarian emergency in December 2013, requesting an unprecedented $6,500,000,000 in 2014 for the Syrian response, representing nearly half of the United Nations entire global humanitarian request; and

Whereas the United States has provided $1,700,000,000 in assistance to those suffering inside Syria, as well as refugees and host communities in neighboring countries and has committed to continue to increase its humanitarian contributions for those affected by the conflict: Now, therefore, be it

1 Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

2 (1) strongly condemns all parties' attacks on ci-
3 vilians and civilian infrastructure in Syria, including
4 attacks on medical personnel, schools, and health fa-
5 cilities, and the use of explosive weapons, including
6 “barrel bombs” and missiles, in populated areas,
7 and calls on Bashar al-Assad's regime and sup-
8 porting militias, as well as all other parties to the 9 conflict in Syria, to end the violence against civil-
10 ians, respect international norms and principles, and

1 pursue all appropriate diplomatic options to work to-
2 ward a negotiated end to the crisis;

3 (2) demands that Bashar al-Assad's regime and 4 supporting militias, as well as all other parties to the 5 conflict in Syria, immediately cease attacks upon ci-
6 vilians and civilian infrastructure, facilitate unfet-
7 tered humanitarian access, especially that of domes-
8 tic and international medical professionals, through-
9 out the country, respect the safety and security of 10 humanitarian workers, and ensure freedom of move-
11 ment for humanitarian workers and organizations so
12 they may deliver aid to those most in need;

13 (3) calls for the immediate and full implementa-
14 tion of the provisions of the October 2013 United
15 Nations Security Council Presidential Statement, es-
16 pecially including facilitation of the expansion of hu-
17 manitarian relief operations in accordance with 18 international humanitarian norms;

19 (4) calls for the immediate, full and United Na-
20 tions-monitored implementation of the provisions of 21 the 2014 United Nations Security Council Resolu-
22 tion 2139 to promptly allow unhindered humani-
23 tarian access, including across conflict lines (for the 24 United Nations and its partners) to people in need
25 throughout Syria;

1 (5) urges the Administration and allies of the
2 United States to formally withdraw their recognition
3 of Bashar al-Assad's regime as the rightful Govern-
4 ment of Syria, unless and until the Assad regime
5 and its supporting militias discontinue their barbaric
6 slaughter, systematic starvation, and other grave
7 human rights abuses and are granted full and unfet-
8 tered access for deliveries of humanitarian assist-
9 ance, even as other negotiations with Assad's regime
10 may continue;

11 (6) further calls upon the United Nations Secu-
12 rity Council, acting under Article 5 of the Charter
13 of the United Nations, to suspend the Government
14 of Syria's rights and privileges of membership by the 15 General Assembly until such time as the Assad re-
16 gime has ceased attacks upon civilians, and granted
17 free and unfettered access for deliveries of humani-
18 tarian assistance throughout the territory of Syria;

19 (7) urges all donors, regional and otherwise, to 20 meet the 2014 United Nations humanitarian fund-
21 ing appeal;

22 (8) commends regional governments and com-
23 munities for continuing to host Syrian refugees and 24 urges them to keep their borders open to civilians
25 fleeing the Syria conflict;

1 (9) calls upon the Assad regime, the Syrian op-
2 position, and all other parties to the conflict, the Ad-
3 ministration, and the United Nations to improve
4 their facilitation and support for the Syrian-Amer-
5 ican community, especially medical professionals, as 6 they work to aid the Syrian people with all forms of 7 humanitarian assistance;

8 (10) calls for continued international support of 9 neighboring countries and host communities that are 10 supporting refugees fleeing the Syrian conflict;

11 (11) calls for international investment in edu-
12 cation in host countries to expand learning opportu-
13 nities for refugee children, and support programs
14 that help them gain access to quality instruction,
15 protect them from violence and abuse, and provide
16 counseling;

17 (12) calls on the international community to en-
18 sure that vulnerable refugee and displaced women
19 and girls have access to services and programs, im-
20 plement steps to mitigate risks and prevent gender-
21 based violence, and assure the protection of women
22 and girls against sexual exploitation, early marriage,
23 human trafficking, and rape;

24 (13) calls for the meaningful participation of 25 Syrian civil society, including women representatives,

1 in the overall humanitarian response, political pro-

9 from adoption of this resolution a strategy for 10 United States engagement on the Syria crisis, with 11 a specific focus on humanitarian assistance and de-
12 velopment, and protecting human rights inside Syria
13 and in the region.

AMENDMENT IN THE NATURE OF A SUBSTITUTE
TO H. RES. 520
OFFERED BY MR. ROYCE OF CALIFORNIA

Strike the preamble and insert the following:

Whereas March 2014 marked the third year of the crisis in Syria, which has resulted in the world's largest ongoing humanitarian disaster, and the urgent need for a resolution to the conflict, which cannot be achieved so long as Bashar al-Assad continues his despotic rule;

Whereas the regime of Bashar al-Assad and supporting militias, including Hezbollah, continue to carry out sectarian mass atrocities, which have included mass targeted killings, mass graves, the extermination of entire families, including their children, incidents of ethnic cleansing, sexual violence, widespread torture, aerial bombardment of residential areas, and otherwise forced displacement of certain Syrian civilians especially from areas in western Syria where Assad is attempting to increase the dominance of his own loyalists;

Whereas Assad's forces have carried out chemical weapons attacks against Syrian civilians including the August 21, 2013, sarin attack on a suburb of Damascus, which killed an estimated 1,400 Syrians, hundreds of whom were children;

Whereas press reports indicate that the Assad regime has used chlorine gas in attacks against the village of Kfar Zeita, an opposition-held area, as recently as April 2014;

Whereas the Governments of Russia and Iran continue to provide robust military, financial, and diplomatic support to Assad and supporting groups including Hezbollah, enabling their continued mass atrocities against Syrian civilians;

Whereas the United States Government should not continue to officially recognize a regime that is guilty of such vicious abuses of basic human rights on such a vast scale and should seek to support a resolution to the conflict that enables the Syria people to form a peaceful, democratic government that respects human rights and the rule of law, and does not include Bashar al-Assad;

Whereas the United States Department of State took appropriate action on March 5, 2014, in restricting the movements of Assad's loyal representative to the United Nations, Bashar al-Jaafari, to within a 25-mile radius of New York City;

Whereas the United States Department of State also suspended the diplomatic operations of the Assad regime in the United States and expelled Syrian diplomats from Washington, Michigan, and Texas on March 18, 2014;

Whereas over 150,000 people have been killed, including more than 11,000 children, many more have been seriously wounded, and civilian casualties continue to mount as widespread and systematic attacks on schools, hospitals, and other civilian facilities persist in violation of international norms and principles;

Whereas the United Nations has registered more than 2,600,000 Syrian refugees who have fled to neighboring countries, while regional governments and the United Nations estimate that the total number of refugees already has reached more than 3,000,000;

Whereas the United Nations expects the total number of Syrian refugees to reach over 4,000,000 by the end of 2014;

Whereas approximately half of Syrian refugees are children, including nearly 500,000 under the age of 5, and thousands have been separated from their parents and are especially vulnerable to abuse and exploitation;

Whereas the United Nations estimates that over 9,300,000 civilians are in need of humanitarian assistance within Syria, more than 40 percent of the country's total population, including 6,500,000 internally displaced persons;

Whereas Bashar al-Assad's forces, supporting militias, and other parties to the conflict are systematically blocking the delivery of humanitarian aid to many civilian areas, including food and medical care funded by the United States and the international community, in violation of international norms and principles;

Whereas Assad's regime often uses humanitarian assistance, and the withholding of it, as a weapon against his opposition;

Whereas the United Nations estimates that 3,000,000 Syrians are trapped in hard-to-reach or besieged areas, with an estimated 250,000 cut-off from assistance for over a year;

Whereas the crisis has worsened already difficult conditions for Syrian women and girls, who are especially vulnerable to economic hardship and gender-based violence, including early marriage, forced marriage, trafficking, sexual violence, or the fear of sexual violence;

Whereas over 5,000,000 children affected by the conflict desperately need food, clean water, shelter, and medical care;

Whereas millions of Syrian children have been forced out of school, and an entire generation of young Syrians are being shaped by violence, displacement, and persistent lack of opportunity and are therefore at high risk of exploitation, life-long underdevelopment, and radicalization;

Whereas the World Health Organization estimates that 70 percent of Syria's medical professionals, up to 80,000 people, have fled the country, while remaining professionals are deliberately targeted by parties to the conflict;

Whereas regional countries, including Jordan, Lebanon, Turkey, Egypt and Iraq, are hosting well over 2,000,000 refugees;

Whereas despite the attention and resources refugee camps receive, approximately 83 percent of Syrian refugees in the region, do not live in formal refugee camps but rather among host communities where resources and services, including health, water and sanitation, electricity, and other systems are strained at the municipal and national level;

Whereas many members of the Syrian-American community, especially medical professionals, have generously donated their time and money, while taking great personal risk, in heroic efforts to reach those in need inside Syria with humanitarian assistance;

Whereas after decades of conflict between Israel and Syria, Israeli medical professionals have treated wounded Syrian civilians;

Whereas the United Nations launched the largest appeal in its history for a single humanitarian emergency, requesting an unprecedented $6,500,000,000 in 2014 for the Syrian response, representing nearly half of the United Nation's entire global humanitarian request;

Whereas as of April 2014, the heads of United Nations humanitarian agencies have reported that the appeal "has gone largely unanswered"; and

Whereas the United States has provided over $1,700,000,000 in assistance to those suffering inside Syria, as well as refugees and host communities in neighboring countries and has committed to continue to increase its humanitarian contributions for those affected by the conflict: Now, therefore, be it

SEPTEMBER 9, 2013

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey (for himself, Mr. WOLF, Mr. DEFazio, Mr. MARINO, Mr. HIGGINS, Mr. WEBER of Texas, Mr. HUFFMAN, Mr. CULBERSON, Mr. PITTS, Mr. ROHRBACHER, Mr. FRANKS of Arizona, and Mr. FORTENBERRY) submitted the following concurrent resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Expressing the sense of Congress regarding the need for investigation and prosecution of war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide, whether committed by officials of the Government of Syria, or members of other groups involved in civil war in Syria, and calling on the President to direct the United States representative to the United Nations to use the voice and vote of the United States to immediately promote the establishment of a Syrian war crimes tribunal, and for other purposes.

Whereas the Government of Syria is reported to have engaged in widespread torture, rape, and massacre of civilians, including by means of chemical weapons, most recently on or about August 21, 2013;

Whereas other groups involved in civil war in Syria, including the al-Nusra Front, are reported to have engaged in torture, rape, summary execution of government soldiers, kidnapping for ransom, and violence against civilians, including Christians and others who are not Sunni Muslims;

Whereas these and other actions perpetrated by the Government of Syria and other groups involved in civil war in Syria may constitute war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide;

Whereas Syria is not a state-party to the Rome Statute and is not a member of the International Criminal Court;

Whereas the international community has previously established ad hoc tribunals through the United Nations to bring justice in specific countries where there have been war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide;

Whereas ad hoc tribunals, including the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, and the Special Court for Sierra Leone, have successfully investigated and prosecuted war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide, and there are many positive lessons to be learned from these three ad hoc tribunals; and

Whereas any lasting, peaceful solution to civil war in Syria must be based upon justice for all, including members of all factions, political parties, ethnicities, and religions: Now, therefore, be it

20 States representative to the United Nations to use
21 the voice and vote of the United States to imme-
22 diately promote the establishment of a Syrian war

6 (5) the United States should make collection of 7 information that can be supplied to a Syrian war
8 crimes tribunal for use as evidence to support the in-
9 dictment and trial of any person involved in civil war

AMENDMENT IN THE NATURE OF A SUBSTITUTE
TO H. CON. RES. 51
OFFERED BY MR. SMITH OF NEW JERSEY

Amend the preamble to read as follows:

Whereas the Government of Syria is reported to have engaged in widespread torture, rape, employment of starvation as a weapon of war, and massacre of civilians, including by means of chemical weapons;

Whereas other parties to the civil war in Syria, including the al-Nusra Front and the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant, are reported to have engaged in torture, rape, summary execution of government soldiers, kidnapping for ransom, and violence against civilians, including Christians and others who are not Sunni Muslims;

Sierra Leone, have successfully investigated and prosecuted war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide, and there are many positive lessons to be learned from these three ad hoc tribunals; and

Whereas the United States supports the collection and analysis of documentation related to the ongoing violations of human rights, the coordination of Syrian and international actors working on documentation and transitional justice efforts, and education and outreach on transitional justice concepts and processes, including efforts of the Syria Justice and Accountability Center sponsored by the United States and various other states and multilateral institutions: Now, therefore, be it

3 tody of a Syrian war crimes tribunal persons in-

Amend the title so as to read: “A concurrent resolution expressing the sense of Congress regarding the need for investigation and prosecution of war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide, whether committed by officials of the Government of Syria or other parties to the civil war in Syria, and calling on the President to direct the United States representative to the United Nations to use the voice and vote of the United States to immediately promote the establishment of a Syrian war crimes tribunal, and for other purposes.”.

Chairman ROYCE. I will now recognize members who want to speak on the en bloc items. And I will begin with myself, because today we are considering two resolutions regarding the crisis in Syria.

The first is House Resolution 520, which Ranking Member Engel and I introduced last month in response to the dire humanitarian situation there. Mr. Engel has led on this critical issue for years now, which I greatly appreciate.

It has been over 3 years since Syrian protesters peacefully gathered to call for democratic reforms. Many of you remember the protest with the demonstrators asking, “Peaceful, peaceful,” as they walked through the street before they were fired upon by forces loyal to Syria’s brutal dictator, Bashar al-Assad. Since then, the conflict has claimed the lives of at least 150,000 people. It has displaced millions, while fueling the expansion of terrorist groups throughout the region.

This crisis is a humanitarian nightmare. Backed by Russia, Iran, and Hezbollah, Assad continues to commit mass atrocities, including the extermination of entire families, incidents of ethnic cleansing, aerial bombardment of residential areas with barrel bombs, and even the use of chemical weapons, such as last summer's sarin attack on a Damascus suburb.

The U.N. has estimated that over 9 million Syrians trapped inside the country are in need right now of humanitarian assistance. Yet Assad continues to use international aid as a weapon of war. He has instigated kneel-or-starve campaigns in which civilians are denied food and other basic supplies until they bow to the regime.

This resolution demands that all parties to the conflict in Syria immediately cease attacks on civilians and provide aid workers with access throughout the country. This would include the many Syrian-Americans, including medical professionals, who are so bravely trying to provide assistance to those in need inside Syria.

It also urges the administration to formally withdraw its official diplomatic recognition of the Assad regime. Shortly after this resolution's introduction, the administration expelled Syrian diplomats from the United States. Given Assad's barbaric slaughter of his own people and other grave abuses, ending our official recognition of his regime is more than justified.

And, lastly, this resolution calls upon the President to develop and submit to Congress a strategy for U.S. engagement on the Syria crisis.

Now the other House Concurrent Resolution 51, that I was going to comment on was introduced by Subcommittee Chairman Smith. We appreciate what strong leadership Mr. Smith has shown on so many humanitarian issues, and the crisis in Syria is no exception.

I have already touched on the growing list of horrendous atrocities being committed inside Syria. Assad and his supporting forces, which include Hezbollah, are guilty of widespread human rights violations, summary executions, ethnic cleansing, chemical attacks. And, meanwhile, extremist groups, especially associated with al-Qaeda, have also been guilty of grave abuses as they strive to violently impose their own radical ideology on Syrian civilians.

House Concurrent Resolution 51 calls for the creation of an international tribunal to hold accountable those responsible for these heinous crimes. The resolution envisions a flexible, ad hoc court, like those established following brutal conflicts in Yugoslavia, Rwanda, and Sierra Leone.

To be clear, this court would be entirely distinct from the International Criminal Court and would focus solely on the Syria crisis. Congressional approval of this resolution will send a strong signal of support to the Syrian people, and I urge members to support its passage here today.

And I now turn to H.R. 4028, introduced by Ms. Meng of New York.

The freedom to practice the religion of one's choosing is a core principle of good democratic governance. This freedom includes the ability to gather and pay respects to loved ones in accordance with religious or spiritual rights of passage. Unfortunately, in some places around the world, local or national governments have permitted the destruction of cemeteries with certain religious affiliations or have tolerated their desecration by hateful groups.

H.R. 4028 modifies the International Religious Freedom Act to include the desecration of cemeteries among the listed violations of the right to religious freedom. This bill emphasizes that Congress views the desecration of cemeteries as constituting a violation of this fundamental right.

And I want to thank the bill's author, Ms. Meng, for her leadership on this important issue.

And I also want to thank Mr. Collins for his amendment today, which puts the preservation of burial grounds in its proper context. As members know, Mr. Collins has served as a pastor, and we very much appreciate his insight.

So do any members seek recognition to speak on any of the en bloc items?

We will start with Ms. Meng.

Ms. MENG. I would like to thank Chairman Royce and Ranking Member Engel for including H.R. 4028 in the en bloc package of bills before the committee today for consideration.

I also want to thank Congressman Doug Collins for his partnership here and valuable contributions to the bill.

Thank you to both Republican and Democratic committee staff for recognizing the value of this bill and working so hard to bring it before the committee today.

The bill is short but, I believe, significant. It adds the words "desecration of cemeteries" to the violations of the rights to religious freedom listed in the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998.

There are two related problems we seek to address through this legislation. One is the religiously motivated vandalism of cemeteries that occurs with alarming regularity. The second is the building and development over cemeteries in places where there are no communities remaining to protect and look out for the cemeteries. The bill will give our diplomats a new tool they can use to protect our interests.

H.R. 4028 also empowers the Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad. This commission was established in the 1980s through legislation introduced by the late Congressman Stephen Solarz. The Commission works to identify and preserve cemeteries, memorials, and buildings in foreign countries that are associated with the cultural heritage of Americans.

The Commission has done much work in areas of the former Soviet Union where Jewish communities were destroyed by the Holocaust and where power subsequently passed to atheistic communist regimes. It is essential that we act to protect religious freedom in these areas where, as we know, political instability and anti-Semitism are widespread.

It is fitting that we consider this bill during Holocaust Remembrance Week because the bill is largely devoted to the millions who perished in genocides in the 20th century. These genocides destroyed communities and left their burial grounds uncared for and unpreserved.

The preservation of cemeteries often reflects the religious tolerance and freedom of the countries in which they are located. It is my hope that this legislation will help promote such preservation and greater tolerance, respect, and empathy around the world.

I thank the committee again for its consideration and yield back the balance of my time.

Chairman ROYCE. Ms. Meng, we thank you again for this amendment. Thank you.

Let's see. I think we need to go to Mr. Smith next and then to this side.

Mr. SMITH. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. And thank you for scheduling this important markup and for including H. Con. Res. 51 among the bills and resolutions considered.

I, as no doubt all of you, have been shocked by images of horrific human rights violations, including summary executions, torture, rape, and chemical weapon attacks in Syria. Since the Syrian Civil War began, perhaps as many as 150,000 people have been killed and more than 9 million people have been forced to leave their homes, 6.5 million of them internally displaced. By the end of last year, it is estimated that neighboring countries such as Turkey, Jordan, Lebanon, and Iraq were holding nearly 3 million Syrian refugees.

Who is culpable for these heinous acts, and how can they be held accountable, be they members of the Assad regime or Islamist radicals from neighboring countries? Those who have perpetrated human rights violations among the Syrian Government, the rebels and the foreign fighters on both sides of this conflict, must be shown that their actions will have serious, predictable, and certain consequences. They need to learn the lesson that Charles Taylor learned, who got a 50-year sentence when he was brought to trial and convicted by the Special Court for Sierra Leone.

H. Con. Res. 51, introduced on September 9th, calls for the creation of an international tribunal that would be more flexible and more efficient than the International Criminal Court to ensure accountability for human rights violations committed by all sides. Such a tribunal would draw upon past experience, creating a justice mechanism robust enough to hold perpetrators accountable for the most egregious wrongs yet nimble enough not to derail chances for peace due to rigidity.

Beginning with the Nuremberg and Tokyo tribunals, a body of law has developed concerning war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide. Since the end of the Cold War, we have seen examples of ad hoc tribunals in the former Yugoslavia, Rwanda, and hybrid mechanisms such as the Special Court for Sierra Leone.

As chair of the subcommittee that deals with human rights, especially during the 1990s, as well as Helsinki Commission chairman, I held a series of hearings on the Yugoslav tribunal, the courts that were in Sierra Leone and Rwanda, the two in Africa, and often had the chief prosecutors testify at those, including Carla Del Ponte from the Yugoslav court and the chief prosecutor from Sierra Leone, David Crane. Well, we brought David Crane back last October 30th to ask him what his view would be on such a court, and he gave riveting testimony, as did other experts, as to the absolute need for the immediate establishment of this kind of flexible court.

I would note parenthetically that each of these tribunals, the three of them, have achieved a level of success that has escaped the International Criminal Court. The Yugoslavian tribunal has won 67 convictions; the Rwanda tribunal, 47; and Sierra Leone has won 16 convictions. Meanwhile, the ICC, costing about $140 million annually, has thus far seen only one conviction—all of the indictments have been in Africa, and only one conviction of somebody, a lower-level person from the DR Congo.

One thing we do not want to do is go down the ICC route. The ICC process is distant and has no local ownership of its justice process. It is far less flexible than an ad hoc tribunal that can be designed to fit the situation. The ICC requires a referral. In the case of the current President and Deputy President of Kenya, it was Kenya itself that facilitated the referral. That is highly unlikely in the case of Syria.

Since Syria is a Russian client state, this U.N. Security Council member would oppose any referral of the Syria matter to the ICC but might be convinced to support an ad hoc proceeding that focuses on war crimes by the government as well as the rebels, one that allows for plea-bargaining for witnesses and other legal negotiations to enable such a court to successfully punish at least some of the direct perpetrators of these increasingly horrific crimes.

And Syria, like the United States, never ratified the Rome Statute that created the ICC, which raises legitimate concerns about sovereignty, with implications for our country, which this panel also addresses.

There are issues that must be addressed for any Syrian war crimes tribunal to be created and to operate successfully. There must be sustained international will for it to happen in a meaningful way. An agreed-upon system of law must be the basis for the proceedings. An agreed-upon structure, funding mechanism, and location for the proceedings must be found. There must be a determination on how many targets of justice will be pursued. A timetable and time span of such a tribunal must be devised. There are even more issues that must be settled before such an ad hoc tribunal can exist.

Those who are even now perpetrating crimes against humanity must be shown that their crimes will not continue with impunity. Syria has been called the world's worst humanitarian crisis. One might reasonably also consider it the worst human rights crisis in the world, as well. Therefore, the international community owes it to the people of Syria and their neighbors to do all that we can do right now to bring to a halt the actions of those creating this crisis for Syria and the region. Now we have the opportunity to give hope to the terrorized people of Syria.

The subcommittee that I chair had a hearing last October 30th where we heard from some of the most experienced voices concerning international justice mechanisms, as we have met several times with the State Department and have worked diligently with the committee, especially Ranking Member Eliot Engel and Chairman Ed Royce, in shaping a lean, muscular resolution that could be adapted to address this situation in Syria as it currently exists, providing broad latitude for the administration to conduct foreign policy.

The suffering of the people of Syria must end, and today we have our opportunity to help achieve that. This is a means to that end. And, again, those who are committing these horrific crimes need to know that they face certain punishment.

I yield back, and I thank you very much.
Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Smith.

Mr. Gerry Connolly of Virginia.

Mr. CONNOLLY. Mr. Chairman, because of scheduling, if you don't mind, I would yield to my friend, Mr. Deutch.

Mr. DEUTCH. Thank you, Mr. Connolly. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Thank you, Chairman Royce, for holding today's markup and for your leadership in addressing the Syria crisis.

I would like to offer my full support for H. Res. 520, which seeks to refocus U.S. policy toward Syria and provide greater access to humanitarian relief to those who are suffering.

As my colleagues have noted, there are now 9.3 million people in need of humanitarian assistance, 6½ million internally displaced people in Syria, with potentially 3 million of those in besieged areas, and 2.7 million refugees in neighboring countries. Our regional allies are struggling to absorb this massive influx.

And while the United States has provided over $1.7 billion in relief, funding appeals from the United Nations have been grossly ignored by the international community, with only $1.5 billion of the U.N.'s $6.5-billion appeal having been fulfilled.

The conversation surrounding Syria can no longer be just about how we put an end to the conflict. It must be about what we can do to mitigate the immediate effects of this tragic situation on so many innocent civilians.

We saw a glimmer of hope when the United Nations Security Council passed a nonbinding resolution calling on all sides to respect humanitarian access. But the terms of this resolution have been largely ignored, as millions are still cut off from food deliveries and basic medical treatment.

All of this continues in the midst of new reports that chemical attacks using chlorine gas may have happened this past month.

The United States alone will not solve the Syrian crisis, but we must continue to press our allies to act on humanitarian needs. Ending this type of unimaginable human suffering should be a priority for the entire world, but the United States and our reputation throughout the world is strengthened when human rights holds a prominent place in our foreign policy.

I would again like to thank the chair and the ranking member for their commitment to continuing to advance our Syria policy. And I thank my good friend, Mr. Connolly, for yielding.

Mr. CONNOLLY. Thank you.

Mr. Chairman, I want to lend my support, my very enthusiastic support, to both H. Res. 520 and H. Con. Res. 51, companion pieces with respect to Syria.

The humanitarian crisis in Syria is almost unprecedented in the region. We had testimony just a few weeks ago before this committee by Rajiv Shah, the USAID Administrator, that the number of internal displaced persons in Syria and the number of external refugees generated by the crisis has quadrupled in the year since he testified previously—quadrupled.

We now have 25 to 30 percent of the equivalent population as refugees in Lebanon and Jordan. These are clearly potential sources of destabilization in that part of the world that we can least afford. So addressing the humanitarian crisis, it seems to me, must be a priority for the United States Government.

And I applaud Mr. Smith for his remarks, and for your leadership as well, Mr. Chairman, and for that of Mr. Engel, on the war crimes resolution. We do know that that is efficacious. We do know that that makes a difference. And holding out that hope to the victims of this violence, that sooner or later they will be brought to justice, we will see to it, that is what this resolution says. And I think it is a very important cornerstone of our evolving foreign policy with respect to the crisis in Syria.

I thank the chair, and I thank my colleagues for their leadership. And I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Connolly.

Mr. Dana Rohrabacher of California.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman, and I appreciate you recognizing me for this semi-colloquy.

And I appreciate your leadership on the issue that was brought before us in H.R. 4490, the communications amendment and legislation that we just passed through this committee. That really is desperately needed reform that has been needed for a long time.

And it is my understanding that you are seriously considering including report language that indicates that broadcasting entities should not hire an individual who has worked within the previous 6 years for the foreign ministry, state-sponsored media, or security services of any country that does not provide objective, accurate, and credible news.

This policy is vital to protect our honest and hardworking journalists and broadcasters from foreign agents acting at the behest of hostile powers. This will also add other improvements to the security that this committee has already put in place by passing that legislation.

Three years ago, when I chaired the Oversight and Investigation Subcommittee, the very first hearing I called looked into the BBG. A major problem that we uncovered at that hearing was the lack of effective counterintelligence protection for our international broadcasters.

Mr. Chairman, you know what a powerful tool the Voice of America and the Freedom Broadcasters are for our country. Preventing such people from working for our broadcasters will increase the credibility of our broadcasters and add additional security against efforts by foreign powers to disrupt their work. I appreciate your willingness to consider including language in that legislation, report language, that will deal with this issue.

Chairman ROYCE. And I want to thank Mr. Rohrabacher for the seriousness that he has brought to this debate over how we go forward with the Broadcasting Board of Governors.

One of the specific concerns you have is, of course, the vetting of employees who would be tied to foreign governments. We accepted your first amendment, which directly says that foreign agents—that employees will be vetted to catch foreign agents of foreign regimes or those tied to advocating terrorism, et cetera. That may have caught most of what you want to go after.

If there is additional language, we are happy to try to work with you to work something out as we go forward. This is just the first step in the process. But we did accept your first amendment—

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Thank you very much.

Chairman ROYCE [continuing]. Going directly to the point.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. And I appreciate your willingness to perfect it.

Chairman ROYCE. Very good. Well, we will try to perfect it. Thank you, Mr. Rohrabacher.

We go now to this side. Any other members seeking recognition at this time?

If not, I think Mr. Collins had the amendment.

Mr. COLLINS. Yes. Mr. Chairman, thank you.

And I would want to thank Congresswoman Meng for bringing this issue of desecration of cemeteries to light. It is good when we can come together, and especially on issues such as, not only religious expression, but also doing so in a very tangible way I think is very good. And it is always good to reach across and show that we can find common ground, and I appreciate that.

My amendment only adds finding language to the H.R. 4028 to highlight the necessity for Congress to add cemetery desecration as a violation of religious expression. The desecration of the Kaposvar Jewish Cemetery in Hungary is a sobering reminder of the lack of religious freedom abroad. Something that we have here is not universal. Those grounds are final resting places for the deceased and deserve the respect of all, regardless of personal beliefs.

These acts and others like them around the world show the continued prejudice toward ethnic and religious groups. These attacks affect the fundamental right to freedom of religion, especially when tolerated or encouraged by local or national governments.

As an Air Force Reserve chaplain, I believe expressing your personal religious beliefs shouldn't be just a privilege, but it should be a right given to everyone. That is why I am cosponsoring Representative Meng's bill and encourage Congress to put its weight behind such a cause.

This body is committed to protecting the freedom of religion, including the preservation of heritage of cemeteries across the United States and abroad. That is what brings us to this amendment and also to this fine bill and the work that has been done by Congresswoman Meng, which I commend, and also the chairman and ranking member.

And, with that, Mr. Chairman, I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Pastor Collins.

Now, hearing no further requests for recognition, the question now occurs on the items considered en bloc. This would be the legislation by Ms. Meng on International Religious Freedom Act, as it regards desecration of cemeteries, expanding that. It would include Mr. Smith's bill, the Syrian war crimes tribunal legislation, and the Royce-Engel legislation on Syrian humanitarian access. So we will consider that en bloc.

All those in favor, say aye.

All those opposed, no.

In the opinion of the Chair, the ayes have it. The measures are considered en bloc. H.R. 4028, House Resolution 520, and House Concurrent Resolution 51 are agreed to as amended.

And, without objection, each of the measures as amended is ordered favorably reported as a single amendment in the nature of a substitute.

Staff is directed to make any technical and conforming changes.
And that concludes our business of today. I want to thank Ranking Member Engel and all of our committee members here for their contributions and assistance to this legislation.

The committee is adjourned.

[Whereupon, at 10:48 a.m., the committee was adjourned.]

Statement for the Record
Submitted by the Honorable Eliot L. Engel

Mr. Chairman, thank you again for holding this important markup today. As always, it's been a pleasure working with you and your staff to ensure that the legislation we consider in this Committee enjoys bipartisan support.

First, I would like to express my strong support for H. Res. 520, a resolution you and I introduced to mark the third anniversary of the horrendous civil war in Syria. The conflict has killed more than 150,000 people, left Syria in chaos, and attracted the world's most vicious and violent extremists, including al Qaeda. The massive refugee exodus has severely burdened Syria's neighbors and created more instability in an already volatile region.

This resolution will not end the conflict, but it is a step in the right direction. It demands that the Assad regime provide humanitarian access for those who are most in need inside Syria. It's absolutely unacceptable that the regime has ignored the international community's repeated calls for safe passage of food, water and medicine. The resolution also calls on the UN to work more closely with NGOs that have networks inside Syria so we can provide urgent humanitarian assistance right away without having to wait on the regime.

In addition, the resolution calls on the Administration to withdraw legal recognition of the Assad regime. Our continued recognition of Assad only empowers his patrons in Iran and Russia. I commend the Administration for closing the Syrian diplomatic mission in the United States and for recognizing the Syrian opposition as the legitimate political representative of the Syrian people. It's now time to take the next step.

Lastly, H. Res. 520 calls on the Administration to develop a new strategy to help address the dire humanitarian catastrophe and to end the conflict. We need a new way forward, and I'm glad that we're taking a bipartisan approach to this critical matter. Thank you, Chairman Royce, for your leadership and your partnership.

I also support H. Con Res. 51, and I'd like to thank Congressman Chris Smith for his leadership on this important issue. This resolution recognizes that there must be accountability for the violence and human tragedy in Syria, and it calls for the immediate establishment of a war crimes tribunal, modeled after the tribunals created for Yugoslavia, Rwanda and Sierra Leone. The resolution also builds on current US efforts to document atrocities committed by parties to the conflict and urges the US to collect evidence of these war crimes. I urge its adoption by the Committee.

Finally, I strongly support H.R. 4028, a bill to amend the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998 to include the desecration of cemeteries as a violation of the right to religious freedom. Many religions consider cemeteries sacred, and the frequency of cemetery desecration around the world is truly shocking. I believe that respecting one's dead is both an important and meaningful right, and I think it's essential that we try to help ensure the integrity of religious communities around the world by protecting their burial sites. I'd like to thank my friend and colleague from New York, Congresswoman Meng, for introducing this legislation and for her leadership on this important issue.

Mr. Chairman, thank you again for holding this markup. I look forward to working with you to move these three important measures through the House.

Statement for the Record

Submitted by the Honorable Brad Sherman

I joined in introducing the US International Communications Reform Act of 2014, and I commend the Chairman and Ranking Member for developing legislation that would reform and restructure the Broadcasting Board of Governors (BBG), which is funded at about three-quarters of a billion dollars a year.

In Section 123 of the bill, where it states the “Duties and Responsibilities” of the Voice of America, my amendment adds the following language at the end of paragraph 9: (9) Reaching identified foreign audiences in local languages and dialects when possible, [INSERT]: particularly when such audiences form a distinct ethnic, cultural, or religious group within a country critical to U.S. national security interests.

In countries that are critical to U.S. national security, it is imperative for the Voice of America to reach populations in their local language wherever possible, including where there are native, primary languages in addition to a secondary or national language understood by an ethnic group. This is an important element of the reform of our public diplomacy, because people in these countries are most receptive to the U.S.-generated message in their native, primary tongue.

For example, while most of Iran is Farsi speaking, we also broadcast in several of the other languages of Iran – including Kurdish, Azeri, and Arabic.

We currently broadcast to Pakistan in Urdu and Pashto (the latter also to Afghanistan).

There is estimated to be at least 23 million Sindhi speakers in Pakistan today. Of those Sindhis that speak Urdu, many in the rural areas and medium and smaller size towns are not sufficiently fluent to follow Urdu broadcasts. According to the CIA World Factbook, 12% of the population speaks Sindhi (making it the second most spoken language in the country), while only 8% natively speaks the official language of Urdu.

Statement for the Record*Submitted by the Honorable Gerald E. Connolly*

Mr. Chairman,

I want to congratulate you and the Ranking Member on the bipartisan legislation before us today to reform the Broadcasting Board of Governors. I am pleased to join you in cosponsoring these common-sense reforms that will result in a more clearly defined mission for the BBG and its components and a more efficient operation on behalf of taxpayers. Like many of my colleagues, I was troubled to hear former Secretary of State Clinton tell this Committee that the BBG had become “practically a defunct agency in terms of its capacity to be able to tell a message around the world.”

As my colleagues know, this bill responds to critical reports issued early last year by the Government Accountability Office and the State Department Office of Inspector General, which were the subject of a hearing we held last June. Those reports highlighted structural deficiencies and overlapping functions within the BBG’s federally operated programs, Voice of America and the Office of Cuba Broadcasting (Radio and TV Marti), and the private but federally-funded broadcasters Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty, the Middle East Broadcasting Networks, and Radio Free Asia. This legislation clarifies the mission statements of the federal and non-federal broadcasters. VOA, for example, will now confine itself to its public diplomacy mission to foster positive relationships between the U.S. and the rest of the world. There were concerns about mission creep within VOA blurring the lines between it and the mission of the international broadcasters to provide uncensored and objective news and analysis on a local and regional level in those places lacking a free press. The bill also includes necessary structural reforms, including a new International Communications Agency with a CEO to manage the day-to-day operations of VOA and other federally-run operations. As we learned during last year’s hearing, there was growing concern of micro-management by the BBG and the challenge of achieving a quorum at Board meetings to make operational decisions. This will put the Board of Governors in a more advisory role. Further, the bill will consolidate the non-federal broadcasters under the same umbrella, known as The Freedom News Network, achieving economies of scale and allowing for closer collaboration on more global efforts.

Although our counterparts in the Senate continue to work on their companion bill, this has been a collaborative effort that included outreach and input from key stakeholders, including the Board itself, the broadcasters, and agency staff. This is the kind of bipartisan oversight on which we should be focusing. I wish more committees would follow this example.

I also want to commend the Chairman and Ranking Member for their efforts to once again elevate the urgency of the situation in Syria with a pair of resolutions on today’s agenda. I am pleased to join you in cosponsoring H. Res. 520, which calls for an end to the attacks on Syrian civilians and expanded access for humanitarian relief efforts. The crisis in Syria is now entering its fourth year and the mass atrocities perpetrated on its civilian population – including sectarian violence, mass killings, torture, and bombings – show no signs of subsiding. The United Nations estimates that the number of internally-displaced civilians tops 6 million, and the number of refugees spilling into neighboring countries stands at more than 3 million. USAID Administrator Shah recently noted those totals are four times larger than they were at this time last year, calling it “unprecedented.” With 40% of Syria's population now in need of humanitarian assistance, the U.S. and its international partners are increasingly frustrated with efforts by the Bashar al-Assad regime to deny access for UN relief efforts. Basic food and medical supplies have been blocked, relief workers and vehicles have been attacked, and some UN staff members are still being detained by Syrian forces. A recent UN report assessing compliance with a Security Council resolution ordering the free flow of assistance to civilians cites the Assad regime and its supporters for clear violations of international humanitarian law. Accordingly, this resolution calls on the Administration to report back to Congress within 60 days on a new strategy to address this humanitarian disaster.

I also am pleased to cosponsor H. Con. Res. 51, expressing the sense of Congress regarding the need to investigate and prosecute war crimes in Syria and calling on the President to direct our ambassador to the UN to promote the creation of a war crimes tribunal. In addition to its ongoing disregard for international humanitarian laws, there are new reports that the Assad regime may have found a way to skirt last fall's chemical weapons disarmament agreement by using chlorine laced bombs the past few months. The U.S. and other nations are now investigating whether this constitutes yet another violation of the Chemical Weapons Convention, no doubt constituting a war crime. As we have seen in the former Yugoslavia, Rwanda, and Sierra Leone, international criminal courts have proven successful in investigating and prosecuting serious war crimes, genocide, and crimes against humanity.

And finally, Mr. Chairman, I am happy to support Ms. Meng's common-sense addition of protecting cemeteries from desecration under the International Religious Freedom Act. Cemeteries reflect the cultural heritage of our communities and deserve the same protections from hate crimes and other acts of intolerance. I urge my colleagues to support these bipartisan measures, and I yield back.
