1 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

2 (a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the 3 “Elic Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act of 4 2017”.

5 (b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—The table of contents for 6 this Act is as follows:

Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.

Sec. 2. Findings.

Sec. 3. Definitions.

Sec. 4. Statement of policy regarding genocide and other atrocity crimes prevention.

Sec. 5. Mass Atrocities Task Force.

Sec. 6. Training of Foreign Service officers in conflict and atrocity crimes prevention.

Sec. 7. Report of the Director of National Intelligence.

Sec. 8. Complex Crises Fund.

7 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

8 Congress makes the following findings:

9 (1) The nature of genocide and other atrocity
10 crimes, including war crimes, crimes against human-11 ity, and ethnic cleansing, includes shocking acts of 12 violence perpetrated by governments and non-state
13 actors, which have killed millions of civilians and 14 other innocent individuals.

15 (2) The commitment to prevent acts of genocide
16 and other atrocity crimes has been a centerpiece of 17 policy by consecutive administrations of the United 18 States Government.

19 (3) The United States was the first country in 20 the world to sign the Convention on the Prevention
21 and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, signed at

1 Paris December 9, 1948, and President Ronald
2 Reagan signed implementing legislation allowing the
3 United States to become a party to the Convention
4 on November 25, 1988.

5 (4) In the 2006 National Security Strategy,
6 President George W. Bush highlighted the “moral 7 imperative that states take action to prevent and 8 punish genocide”.

9 (5) In 2008, the bipartisan Genocide Prevention
10 Task Force, which was co-chaired by former Sec-
11 retary of Defense William Cohen and former Sec-
12 retary of State Madeleine Albright—

13 (A) stated “genocide and mass atrocities
14 also threaten core U.S. national interests”; and 15 (B) recommended the creation of “a new 16 standing interagency mechanism for analysis of 17 threats [of genocide and other mass atrocities]

18 and coordination of appropriate preventive ac-
19 tion”.

20 (6) In December 2010, the Senate unanimously
21 passed Senate Concurrent Resolution 71, which rec-
22 ognized the United States “national interest in help-
23 ing to prevent and mitigate acts of genocide and 24 other mass atrocities against civilians, and sup-
25 porting and encouraging efforts to develop a whole

1 of government approach to prevent and mitigate
2 such acts”.

3 (7) In 2012, President Obama, in Presidential 4 Study Directive 10, which ordered the creation of 5 the Atrocities Prevention Board, stated that he
6 would ensure that the United States Government
7 has the required structures, tools, and mechanisms
8 to better prevent and respond to atrocity crimes.

9 (8) In February 2014, James Clapper, the 10 former Director of National Intelligence, stated in 11 his annual national security threat assessment to 12 Congress—

13 (A) “The overall risk of mass atrocities
14 worldwide will probably increase in 2014 and 15 beyond.”;

16 (B) “Many countries at risk of mass atroc-
17 ities will likely be open to influence to prevent 18 or mitigate them.”; and

19 (C) “Much of the world will almost cer-
20 tainly turn to the United States for leadership
21 to prevent and respond to mass atrocities.”.

22 (9) In February 2016, former Director of Na-
23 tional Intelligence Clapper stated, in his annual 24 national security threat assessment to Congress,
25 “Risks of atrocities, large-scale violence, and regime-

1 threatening instability will remain elevated in 2 2016.”.

3 (10) The United States can strengthen its
4 atrocity crimes prevention and peacebuilding efforts
5 by—

6 (A) supporting civil society which serves a
7 central role in promoting nonviolent conflict
8 resolution and supporting early warning;

9 (B) enhancing cooperation and under-
10 standing among ethnic and religious groups,
11 communities, and factions;

12 (C) working with the international commu-
13 nity to ensure shared responsibility by enhanc-
14 ing multilateral and regional mechanisms that 15 seek to prevent genocide and other atrocity
16 crimes;

17 (D) promoting effective accountability
18 mechanisms to deter individuals and entities
19 that may incite or commit genocide or other
20 atrocity crimes; and

2D SESSION

H. R. _____

To promote free and fair elections, political freedoms, and human rights in Cambodia, and for other purposes.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. YOHO introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on _____

A BILL

To promote free and fair elections, political freedoms, and human rights in Cambodia, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Cambodia Democracy
5 Act of 2018”.

6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

7 Congress finds the following:

8 (1) Cambodia’s present political system was es-
9 tablished in 1991, after decades of internal conflict,

1 by the United Nations-brokered Paris Peace Ac-
2 cords. The first national elections under this system
3 were administered by the United Nations in 1993.
4 Hun Sen, the current Prime Minister of Cambodia,
5 has been in power in Cambodia since before this 6 time, serving as premier from 1985 to 1993, and as
7 Prime Minister thereafter. Hun Sen has used his po-
8 sition to cling to the pinnacle of power in Cambodia
9 for 32 years, through tactics including coup d'état,
10 irregular election procedures, and the silencing of 11 opposition voices.

12 (2) In Cambodia's most recent general elections
13 in 2013, Hun Sen's Cambodian People's Party
14 (CPP) maintained its parliamentary majority by the 15 smallest margin to date, while a unified opposition
16 Cambodia National Rescue Party (CNRP) made
17 substantial gains. The Department of State's Coun-
18 try Reports on Human Rights Practices for 2016
19 described Cambodia's 2013 elections as "largely free
20 of intimidation, in contrast to previous national elec-
21 tions", yet also "fraught with irregularities". Subse-
22 quent local elections marked similar setbacks for the 23 ruling CPP.

24 (3) Cambodia's next general elections will occur
25 in June 2018. According to the 2017 Freedom in

1 the World Report issued by Freedom House, in the
2 intervening period Hun Sen has overseen “a decisive
3 crackdown on the country’s beleaguered opposition
4 and press corps as his [CPP] prepared for national
5 elections”. Regional experts have reached a general
6 consensus that Hun Sen and the CPP have under-
7 taken this crackdown to consolidate power ahead of 8 an election that may have ended their grip on power.

9 (4) Hun Sen’s actions in late 2017 pushed
10 Cambodia further away from democracy. In late Au-
11 gust 2017, the regime shut down the National 12 Democratic Institute and expelled its entire foreign 13 staff from the country within a week. Less than a
14 week later, radio stations carrying Radio Free Asia
15 and Voice of America were also shut down by the re-
16 gime. On September 3, 2017, authorities arrested
17 Kem Sokha, the leader of the CNRP, and charged 18 him with treason, allegedly for participating in an 19 American plot to undermine Hun Sen’s regime. Kem
20 Sokha remains in detention. On November 16, 2017,
21 Cambodia’s Supreme Court dissolved the CNRP,
22 eliminating the most popular and viable challenger
23 to Hun Sen’s regime. Subsequent actions by Hun
24 Sen have aimed to “cement total control over Cam-

1 bodian government and business”, according to
2 Human Rights Watch.

3 (5) Since the dissolution of the CNRP, both the 4 Department of State and the White House have
5 issued statements condemning the Hun Sen regime’s
6 actions to undermine democracy and calling for Kem
7 Sokha’s release. On November 16, 2017 the White
8 House announced that the United States would ter-
9minate support for Cambodia’s National Election
10 Committee. On December 6, 2017, the Department
11 of State began implementing visa restrictions for of-
12 ficials responsible for undermining Cambodian de-
13 mocracy. On February 27, 2018, the White House
14 announced further assistance reductions following
15 Cambodian Senate elections on February 25 which 16 did not represent the genuine will of the Cambodian
17 people.

18 SEC. 3. SANCTIONS RELATING TO UNDERMINING DEMOC-

17 (g) WAIVER.—The President may waive the applica-

24 (a) SUSPENSION.—The sanctions described in section

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

1 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

2 This Act may be cited as the “Cambodia Democracy
3 Act of 2018”.

4 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

5 Congress finds the following:

6 (1) Prime Minister Hun Sen has been in power
7 in Cambodia since 1985 and is the longest-serving
8 leader in Southeast Asia. Despite decades of inter-
9 national attention and assistance to promote a plu-
10 ralist, multi-party democratic system in Cambodia,
11 the Government of Cambodia continues to be
12 undemocratically dominated by the ruling Cambodia
13 People’s Party (CPP), which controls every agency
14 and security apparatus of the state.

15 (2) In 2015, the CPP-controlled parliament
16 passed the “Law on Associations and Non-Govern-
17 mental Organizations”, which gave the government
18 sweeping powers to revoke the registration of NGOs

1 that the government believed to be operating with a
2 political bias in a blatant attempt to restrict the le-
3 gitimate work of civil society. On August 23, 2017,
4 Cambodia's Ministry of Foreign Affairs ordered the 5 closure of the National Democratic Institute and the 6 expulsion of its foreign staff. On September 15,
7 2017, Prime Minister Hun Sen called for the with-
8 drawal of all volunteers from the United States
9 Peace Corps, which has operated in Cambodia since
10 2006 with 500 United States volunteers providing 11 English language and healthcare training.

12 (3) The Government of Cambodia has taken
13 several measures to restrict its media environment,
14 especially through politicized tax investigations
15 against independent media outlets that resulted in 16 the closure of The Cambodian Daily and Radio Free
17 Asia in early September 2017. Additionally, the Gov-
18 ernment of Cambodia has ordered several radio sta-
19 tions to stop the broadcasting of Radio Free Asia
20 and Voice of America programming.

21 (4) Each of the five elections that have taken
22 place in Cambodia since 1991 were conducted in cir-
23 cumstances that were not free and fair, and were 24 marked by fraud, intimidation, violence, and the gov-

1 ernment’s misuse of legal mechanisms to weaken op-
2 position candidates and parties.

3 (5) On September 3, 2017, Kem Sokha, the
4 President of the Cambodia National Rescue Party
5 (CNRP), was arrested on politically motivated
6 charges, including treason and conspiring to over-
7 throw the Government of Cambodia, and faces up to 8 30 years in prison. The CNRP’s previous leader,
9 Sam Rainsy, remains in exile. On November 16,
10 2017, Cambodia’s Supreme Court dissolved the 11 CNRP, eliminating the CPP’s only viable challenger.

12 (6) The United States is committed to pro-
13 moting democracy, human rights, and the rule of 14 law in Cambodia. The United States continues to 15 urge the Government of Cambodia to immediately
16 release Mr. Kem Sokha, reinstate the political status
17 of the CNRP and its 55 elected seats in the Na-
18 tional Assembly, support electoral reform efforts in 19 Cambodia with free and fair elections in 2018 mon-
20 itored by international observers.

21 SEC. 3. SANCTIONS RELATING TO UNDERMINING DEMOC-
22 RACY IN CAMBODIA.

17 International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50
18 U.S.C. 1702 and 1704) to carry out this section.

19 (g) WAIVER.—The President may waive the applica-
20 tion of sanctions described in subsection (b) with respect
21 to a person described in subsection (a) if the President
22 determines and certifies to the appropriate congressional 23 committees that such waiver is in the national interest of 24 the United States.

1 SEC. 4. SUSPENSION OF SANCTIONS.

2 (a) SUSPENSION.—The sanctions described in section
3 3 may be suspended for up to one year upon certification
4 by the President to the appropriate congressional commit-

8 (2) the Committee on Foreign Relations and 9 the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate.

1 TITLE I—MATTERS RELATING
2 TO THE CONFLICT IN BURMA

3 SEC. 101. FINDINGS.

4 Congress finds the following:

5 (1) On August 25, 2017, Burmese military and
6 security forces violently and disproportionately re-
7 sponded to an attack on security outposts, resulting
8 in a mass exodus of Rohingya from the Rakhine
9 State of Burma into Bangladesh, which the Inter-
10 national Organization of Migration called “unprece-
11 dented in terms of volume and speed”.

12 (2) Between August 2017 and March 2018, in 13 response to the violence perpetrated by the Burmese
14 military and security forces, the United Nations esti-
15 mates more than 693,000 Rohingya, approximately 16 78 percent of whom are women and children, have 17 fled to Bangladesh, fearing loss of life, livelihoods,
18 and shelter.

19 (3) Despite the steps taken toward democracy
20 in Burma, there exists limited control by the civilian
21 government over civilian agencies and no meaningful
22 civilian control over the military or security forces
23 that carried out the violence in Rakhine State and 24 that continues to engage in grave human rights

1 abuses against ethnic minorities throughout in the 2 country.

3 (4) Both government- and military-initiated in-
4 vestigations into human rights abuses in Burma in-
5 volving violence between ethnic minorities and Bur-
6 mese security forces have failed to yield credible re-
7 sults or meaningfully hold perpetrators accountable.

8 (5) In a public address on October 12, 2017,
9 State Counsellor Aung San Suu Kyi laid out the fol-
10 lowing goals for the State of Rakhine:

11 (A) Repatriation of those who have crossed
12 over to Bangladesh.

13 (B) Effective provision of humanitarian as-
14 sistance.

15 (C) Resettlement of displaced populations.

16 (D) Economic development and durable
17 peace.

18 (6) Due to restrictions enforced by the Rakhine
19 State government and the military and security
20 forces, there has been little progress made since that
21 time and limited ability for the international commu-
22 nity to meaningfully support, verify, or evaluate the 23 Government of Burma's efforts. There are also cred-
24 ible reports of Burmese military and security forces
25 bulldozing villages where violence occurred, thus de-

1 stroying physical evidence of what may have oc-
2 curred there.

3 (7) Human rights organizations have reported
4 and documented a campaign of violence perpetrated
5 by the security forces of Burma, which indiscrimi-
6 nately fired on and killed civilians, raped women and 7 girls, and arbitrarily arrested Rohingya men without 8 any cause or charges. Satellite images obtained by 9 Amnesty International reveal that, out of the ap-
10 proximately 470 villages in northern Rakhine State,
11 nearly 300 were partially or completely destroyed by 12 fire since August 25, 2017, most of which were com-
13 pletely or partially populated by Rohingya Muslims.

14 (8) On October 10, 2017, at a hearing before
15 the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the Deputy
16 Assistant Secretary of State for Population, Refu-
17 gees, and Migration Mark Storella testified that of 18 the $434,000,000 required by the United Nations
19 for emergency response in the first 6 months of this
20 crisis, “[i]n fiscal year 2017, the United States con-
21 tributed nearly $104 million in assistance to the dis-
22 placed populations in Burma for refugees from 23 Burma throughout the region”.

24 (9) The United Nations Joint Response Plan to 25 fund assistance to Rohingya refugees and the host

1 community in Bangladesh through the end of 2018
2 requires almost $1,000,000,000 in assistance.

3 (10) On November 22, 2017, Secretary of State
4 Rex Tillerson stated that, “After careful and 5 through analysis of available facts, it is clear that
6 the situation in northern Rakhine state constitutes
7 ethnic cleansing against the Rohingya. Those re-
8 sponsible for these atrocities must be held account-
9 able”. He also said the violence “has a number of 10 characteristics of certainly crimes against human-
11 ity”.

12 (11) Yanghee Lee, the United Nations Special
13 Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in 14 Myanmar said, “I am becoming more convinced that 15 the crimes committed following 9 October 2016 and 16 25 August 2017 bear the hallmarks of genocide and 17 call in the strongest possible terms for account-
18 ability.”

19 (12) On December 12, 2017, Wa Lone and 20 Kyaw Soe Oo, two Reuters reporters covering the 21 crisis in Rakhine State, were entrapped, arrested,
22 and charged with violating the Official Secrets Act,
23 continuing a trend of restricting media and free
24 speech and attempting to thwart coverage of the 25 events in Rakhine State.

1 SEC. 102. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

2 It shall be the policy of the United States to—

3 (1) support a complete transition to democracy
4 and genuine national reconciliation in Burma which
5 cannot be achieved without appropriate account-
6 ability for the atrocities committed by the Burmese
7 military against the Rohingya population and other
8 ethnic minorities throughout the country;

9 (2) pursue a strategy of calibrated engagement,
10 which is essential to support the establishment of a
11 peaceful, prosperous, and democratic Burma that in-
12 cludes respect for the human rights of all its people
13 regardless of ethnicity and religion; and

14 (3) ensure that the guiding principles of such a
15 strategy include—

16 (A) supporting meaningful legal and con-
17 stitutional reforms that remove remaining re-
18 strictions on civil and political rights and en-
19 sure civilian governance, including reforms to 20 the current constitutional provision reserving 25
21 percent of parliamentary seats for appointments
22 by the military, which provides the military with 23 veto power over constitutional amendments;

24 (B) establishing a fully democratic, plural-
25 istic, and representative political system that in-

1 includes regularized free and fair elections in
2 which all people of Burma can vote;

3 (C) promoting genuine national reconcili-
4 ation, the conclusion of a credible and sustain-
5 able nationwide cease-fire agreement, including
6 political accommodation of ethnic Shan, Kachin,
7 Chin, Karen, and other ethnic groups, measures
8 to address natural resource governance and rev-
9 enue-sharing, and constitutional change ena-
10 bling inclusive, permanent peace;

11 (D) ensuring accountability for human
12 rights abuses, ethnic cleansing, crimes against 13 humanity, or genocide perpetrated against the 14 Rohingya, Kachin, Shan, Chin, and other ethnic 15 minorities by the military of Burma and other
16 combatants involved in the conflict;

17 (E) strengthening civilian institutions in 18 the government, including support for greater
19 transparency and accountability;

20 (F) establishing professional and non-
21 partisan military, security, and police forces
22 that operate under civilian control, subject to 23 civilian oversight, and are held fully accountable
24 for human rights abuses, corruption, or other
25 abuses of power;

1 (G) combating rampant corruption and il-
2 legal economic activity, including that which in-
3 volves the military and its close allies;

4 (H) empowering local communities, civil
5 society, and independent media;

6 (I) ensuring that the Government of 7 Burma provides full citizenship for the 8 Rohingya population in Burma as well as for 9 those displaced in Bangladesh;

10 (J) promoting responsible international
11 and regional engagement;

12 (K) strengthening respect for and protec-
13 tion of human rights and religious freedom; and

14 (L) addressing and ending the humani-
15 tarian and human rights crises and supporting
16 the ability of the displaced Rohingya to volun-
17 tarily return to their homes, under safe, dig-
18 nified, and internationally approved conditions.

19 SEC. 103. SENSE OF CONGRESS WITH RESPECT TO HUMANI-
20 TARIAN ASSISTANCE, FREEDOM OF MOVE-
21 MENT, AND RIGHTS OF RETURNEES.

22 (a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
23 gress that—

24 (1) significant and sustained international sup-
25 port, from both public and private sources, will be

1 necessary to address the medium- and long-term im-
2 pacts of the crisis in Burma and the impact of the
3 crisis on Bangladesh; and

4 (2) the United States should make resolving the 5 Rohingya crisis one of its top priorities in its en-
6 gagement with regional institutions such as the As-
7 sociation of Southeast Asian Nations.

8 (b) RESTORATION OF HUMANITARIAN ACCESS AND 9 ACCOUNTABILITY IN RAKHINE STATE.—Congress calls on 10 the Government of Burma and Burmese security forces
11 to ensure complete and unfettered humanitarian access in 12 the State of Rakhine and to support an independent inter-
13 national fact-finding mission to investigate allegations of 14 ethnic cleansing, crimes against humanity, and genocide.

15 (c) RIGHTS OF REFUGEES, INTERNALLY DISPLACED
16 PERSONS, AND RETURNEES.—Congress calls on the Gov-
17 ernment of Burma to—

18 (1) ensure that Rohingya have freedom of 19 movement and under no circumstances are subject
20 to unsafe, involuntary, or uninformed repatriation;

21 (2) create conditions for return of those dis-
22 placed from their homes by fully implementing the 23 recommendations of the Advisory Commission on 24 Rakhine State and implementing full and equal citi-
25 zenship;

1 (3) to work closely with the international com-
2 munity including the United Nations High Commis-
3 sioner for Refugees to ensure the dignified, safe, and 4 voluntary return of all those displaced from their 5 homes, especially from Rakhine State, without an 6 unduly high burden of proof; and

7 (4) to offer to those refugees who do not want
8 to return a meaningful alternative, including com-
9 pensation or restitution.

10 SEC. 104. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON PRESS FREEDOM.

11 It is the sense of Congress that in order to promote 12 the freedom of the press in Burma—

13 (1) Wa Lone and Kyaw Soe Oo should be im-
14 mediately and unconditionally released and should 15 have access to legal counsel and to their families;
16 and

17 (2) the decision to use a colonial-era law to ar-
18 rest these reporters underscores the need for serious
19 legal reform, including reform of the Official Secrets
20 Act, 1923 and the Unlawful Association Act, 1908.

1 SEC. 105. SENSE OF CONGRESS WITH RESPECT TO IMPOSI-
2 TION OF SANCTIONS UNDER THE GLOBAL
3 MAGNITSKY HUMAN RIGHTS ACCOUNT-
4 ABILITY ACT.

5 It is the sense of Congress that the President should
6 impose appropriate sanctions under the Global Magnitsky
7 Human Rights Accountability Act (subtitle F of title XII
8 of Public Law 114–328; 130 Stat. 2533; 22 U.S.C. 2656
9 note) against officials and other persons in Burma who
10 are responsible for gross violations of internationally rec-
11 ognized human rights or acts of significant corruption.

16 ANCE AND RECONCILIATION.

17 There is authorized to be appropriated $151,600,000
18 for fiscal year 2019 for humanitarian assistance for 19 Burma, Bangladesh, and the surrounding region, includ-
20 ing—

21 (1) assistance for the victims of the Burmese
22 military’s ethnic cleansing campaign targeting the 23 Rohingya in Rakhine State, including those dis-

25 region;

1 (2) support for voluntary resettlement or repa-
2 triation efforts regionally; and

8 TOR COOPERATION.—Except as provided in subsection
9 (b), the United States may not provide any security assist-
10 ance or engage in any military-to-military programs with 11 the military or security forces of Burma, including 12 through training, observation, or participation in regional 13 exercises, until the date on which the Secretary of State,
14 in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, certifies to 15 the appropriate congressional committees that the military
16 and security forces of Burma have demonstrated signifi-
17 cant progress in abiding by international human rights
18 standards and are undertaking meaningful and significant 19 security sector reform, including reforms that enhance 20 transparency and accountability, to prevent future abuses
21 and that each of the following criteria have been met:

22 (1) The Burmese military and security forces
23 adhere to international humanitarian law, dem-
24 onstrate significant progress in abiding by inter-

1 national standards for human rights, and pledge to
2 stop future human rights abuses.

3 (2) The Burmese military and security forces
4 support efforts to carry out meaningful and com-
5 prehensive investigations of alleged abuses and are 6 taking steps to hold accountable those members of 7 such military and security forces responsible for 8 human rights abuses.

9 (3) The Government of Burma, including the
10 military and security forces, allow immediate and 11 unfettered humanitarian access to communities in

14 (4) The Government of Burma, including the 15 military and security forces, cooperates with the

2 the restoration of the citizenship of the Rohingya.

3 (6) The Government of Burma, including the
4 military and security forces, defines a transparent
5 plan with a binding timeline for professionalizing the 6 military and security forces and includes a process
7 by which the military withdraws from private-sector
8 business enterprises and ceases involvement in the il-
9 legal trade in natural resources and narcotics.

10 (7) The Government of Burma establishes ef-
11 fective civilian control over the finances of its mili-
12 tary and security forces, including by ensuring that 13 the military does not have access to off-budget in-
14 come and that military expenditures are subject to 15 adequate civilian oversight.

16 (b) EXCEPTIONS.—

17 (1) CERTAIN EXISTING AUTHORITIES.—The 18 Secretary of Defense shall retain the authority to 19 conduct consultations with Burma pursuant to the

5 TITLE III—GOVERNANCE OF THE
6 BURMESE MINING AND GEM-
7 STONE SECTOR

8 SEC. 301. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON THE BURMESE MINING
9 SECTOR AND THE IMPORTATION OF BUR-
10 MESE GEMSTONES OR MINERALS.

11 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

12 (1) In 2015, the nongovernmental organization
13 Global Witness estimated that the value of total pro-
14 duction of jade in Burma in 2014 was 15 $31,000,000,000, almost 48 percent of the official
16 gross domestic product of Burma. As much as 80
17 percent of that jade sold is smuggled out of Burma.

18 (2) Burma’s military and associated entities, in-
19 cluding companies owned or controlled by Myanmar
20 Economic Corporation and Myanmar Economic 21 Holding Limited, their affiliated companies and 22 companies owned or controlled by current and 23 former senior military officers or their family mem-
24 bers, are deeply embedded in the mining sector, in-
25 cluding the gemstone industry, and benefit finan-

1 cially from widespread illicit smuggling of jade and
2 rubies from Burma.

3 (3) Illegal trafficking in precious and
4 semiprecious stones from Burma, including the lu-
5 crative trade in high-value jade and rubies, deprives
6 the people of Burma and the civilian government of 7 critical revenue and instead benefits military-linked
8 entities, non-state armed groups, and transnational 9 organized criminal networks.

10 (4) The Government of Burma has begun to 11 take steps to reform aspects of the mining sector, in-
12 cluding governance in the gemstone industry by tem-
13 porarily suspending the issuance or renewal of jade
14 and gemstone mining permits; commissioning an en-
15 vironmental management plan for some mining
16 areas; and establishing the multi-stakeholder Jade
17 and Gemstone Support Committee under the Min-
18 istry of Natural Resources and Environmental Con-
19 servation to develop recommendations for a new in-
20 dustry-wide policy and limited gemstone payment
21 disclosures under the Myanmar Extractives Industry
22 transparency Initiative.

23 (5) The lifting in October 2016 of United 24 States sanctions on the importation of jadeite and 25 rubies from Burma allowed such gemstones to le-

1 gally enter the United States market, but some re-
2 tailers have refrained from sourcing gemstones of
3 Burmese origin due to governance and reputational
4 concerns.

5 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
6 gress that—

7 (1) the United States should deepen engage-
8 ment with the Government of Burma with respect to 9 the mining sector and should make available tech-
10 nical, capacity-building and other assistance through
11 the Department of State or the United States Agen-
12 cy for International Development to support the 13 Government of Burma in efforts to reform the gem-
14 stone industry; and

15 (2) companies that seek to import into the 16 United States gemstones or minerals that may be of 17 Burmese origin or articles of jewelry containing such 18 gemstones should—

19 (A) obtain such materials exclusively from 20 entities that satisfy the transparency criteria
21 described in section 302(b) or from third par-
22 ties that can credibly demonstrate that they
23 sourced the materials from entities that meet
24 such criteria;

1 (B) undertake robust due diligence proce-
2 dures in line with the Due Diligence Guidance
3 for Responsible Business Conduct and Due
4 Diligence Guidance for Responsible Supply
5 Chains of Minerals from Conflict-Affected and 6 High-Risk Areas of the Organization for Eco-
7 nomic Cooperation and Development.

22 tion, license, or permit to produce, process, sell, or

2 ments or contract terms as may be required under
3 Myanmar Extractive Industry Transparency Initia-
4 tive standards.

5 (5) The entity undertakes robust due diligence,
6 in line with the OECD Due Diligence Guidance for 7 Responsible Supply Chains of Minerals from Con-
8 flict-Affected and High-Risk Areas, including public
9 reporting.

10 (c) PUBLICATION OF LIST.—The Secretary of State
11 shall publish the list under subsection (a) and shall peri-
12 odically update such list as appropriate.

14 guidance to relevant companies regarding supply-chain

18 the potential risks associated with the importation of such 19 items.

20 (e) TERMINATION.—The requirement under sub-
21 section (a) shall terminate on the date on which the Presi-
22 dent certifies to the appropriate congressional committees
23 that the Government of Burma has taken substantial
24 measures to reform the mining sector in Burma, including
25 the following:

1 (1) Requiring the mandatory disclosure of pay-
2 ments, permit and license allocations, project reve-
3 nues, relevant contract terms, and beneficial owner-
4 ship, including identifying any politically exposed
5 persons who are beneficial owners, consistent with 6 the approach agreed under the Myanmar EITI and 7 with due regard for civil society participation.

8 (2) Separating the commercial, regulatory, and 9 revenue collection responsibilities within the 10 Myanmar Gems Enterprise and other key state-
11 owned enterprises to remove existing conflicts of in-
12 terest.

13 (3) Monitoring and undertaking enforcement
14 actions, as warranted, to ensure that entities fully 15 adhere to environmental and social impact assess-
16 ment and management standards in accordance with 17 international responsible mining practices, the coun-
18 try's environmental conservation law and other ap-
19 plicable laws and regulations, and that they uphold
20 occupational health and safety standards and codes
21 of conduct that are aligned with the core labor
22 standards of the International Labour Organisation
23 and domestic law.

24 (4) Actively seeking a comprehensive peace
25 agreement that addresses the transparent and fair

1 distribution of benefits from natural resources, in-
2 cluding local benefit-sharing, taking into consider-
3 ation proposals on fiscal federalism for new govern-
4 ance arrangements in resource-rich regions.

5 (5) Implementing on a timely basis policy re-
6 forms aligned with the recommendations of the 7 multi-stakeholder Jade and Gemstone Support Com-

17 servation, and making the results of all such audits
18 public.

19 (8) Establishing a credible and transparent per-
20 mitting process that closely scrutinizes applicants,
21 including based on past performance, and prevents 22 unscrupulous entities from gaining authorized access
23 to concessions or the right to trade in minerals or 24 gemstones.

1 (2) includes a determination whether the events

Chairman ROYCE. So I will now recognize myself to speak on today's business. First, I'd just like to mention on the Cambodian Democracy Act, I want to thank Chairman Yoho. I think this is a very important bill to support the people of Cambodia.

Hun Sen aspires to be a tyrant there and he is behaving right now as a tyrant in terms of what he has done to the political opposition and to his people, and I am very proud to support this act, which will hold Hun Sen and hold his regime accountable for systematic human rights abuses.

I also want to recognize in the audience today our colleague, Congressman Alan Lowenthal, who's been a leader in Congress on U.S.-Cambodia issues. So, Alan, thanks for being with us.

Next, we have H.R. 5819, the BURMA Act. For over three decades, Burma has systematically denied the Rohingya even the most basic of human rights.

Last year, this ethnic cleansing reached new horrific levels. The Burmese military drove 700,000 Rohingya from their homes, burning villages, raping women, and killing thousands.

A Burmese commander told fleeing Rohingya, "We will turn your village into soil," and, tragically, that's what they did.

So I thank the ranking member, Mr. Engel, for introducing this important legislation aimed at stopping these horrific acts.

I'd like to comment on the Intercountry Adoption Information Act. International adoption is an issue that impacts Americans across the country.

I've been honored to help bring many families together and we played a role in going to the Congo in order to bring families back home here who were stranded there and we thank the members of this committee who participated in that.

This act requires the State Department to report annually on countries that have enacted new laws or policies that would impact inter-country adoptions and this information, obviously, would have been very helpful, for example, when the Congo or when Ethiopia both adopted sweeping new laws that put on hold adoptions for American families and left the families stuck there.

So I am glad to support this bill.

Next, we have H.R. 2259, the Sam Farr and Nick Castle Peace Corps Reform Act. We have worked closely with Judge Ted Poe on this issue.

This bill would ensure that Peace Corps volunteers have some say in where they are placed, to make sure that those volunteers are more aware of risks in the field, and that they have better access to qualified medical personnel when they are in the field.

It also extends and enhances expiring provisions in the Kate Puzey Act to provide services to victims who have been victims of sexual assault.

Our young men and women who volunteer with the Peace Corps deserve to have the information and support that they need as they represent our country overseas and this bill does that.

Next, we consider H.R. 3030, the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act. The U.S. must be a world leader in efforts to prevent genocide, in efforts to prevent crimes against humanity, and this act improves interagency coordination, it bolsters training for our diplomats in the field, and it strengthens congressional oversight to make programs aimed at preventing global atrocities far more effective than they are today.

Next, we have Chairman Smith's H.R. 1911. As anti-Semitism is on the rise around the world, this bill ensures that the Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism has direct access to the Secretary of State. Elevating this office will help keep our promise of "never again."

And finally, we have H.R. 4989, the Protecting Diplomats From Surveillance Through Consumer Devices Act. This bill rightly addresses the need for the State Department to develop a clear modern policy regarding the use of devices that may have GPS tracking capability—frequently do—and I thank Representative Castro for this timely measure, which will ensure that the department's policies keep pace with evolving technology. Why? Because we need to keep our men and women safe overseas.

And I now recognize the ranking member, Mr. Engel of New York, for his remarks.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Thank you for calling this markup, and let me thank our colleagues for all the hard work on the measures we are considering this morning.

I'll start with the bill I introduced. I want to thank the chairman again for bringing it forward today and I am glad we are going to address the ongoing tragedy in Burma.

This crisis has been smoldering for years. The Rohingya in the northern part of Burma's Rakhine State have endured hatred, bigotry, and systematic discrimination. They've had their citizenship revoked and have been pushed to the margins of society.

Last August, the fire began to burn out of control with the Burmese military's violent crackdown on the Rohingya, driving nearly 700,000 people into Bangladesh, nearly 80 percent women and children, many of whom are now victims of horrific gender-based violence.

Humanitarian workers expect up to 40,000 births resulting from rape in the refugee camps. That is just horrific, it is gut wrenching, and shame on us. The United States has slammed the door on refugees when Bangladesh, one of the most densely populated countries in the world, has welcomed these people with open arms.

The administration wants to slash resources for combating gender-based violence. It has cut off funding for the U.N. Population Fund, which works in refugees camps to provide access to vital services—things so basic as making sure women have a safe place to shower.

So no thanks to us, the U.N. has requested more than $1 billion to meet needs just this year, funding which would provide round-the-clock lifesaving assistance.

But with the coming rainy season threatening to wipe out the rickety infrastructure around these desperate people, there is no end to this tragedy in sight.

So we need to do more to alleviate this crisis. We also need to remember this crisis is manmade. It is ethnic cleansing and many believe it is genocide. Nothing has been done to hold perpetrators accountable.

The Burmese civilian government has become more closed, not more open, since this tragedy, and meanwhile, our administration seems reticent to hold perpetrators accountable and publicly call for justice.

It's unacceptable. It's a betrayal of our values when we see this sort of abuse. There must be consequences.

My bill would dole out these consequences in the form of new sanctions against Burmese military and security forces involved. It would limit American military engagement with Burma's military, promote civil society, push a political reform, and require a full accounting of what's taken place.

I am grateful for the bipartisan collaboration in advancing this bill and I ask all members for their support and I thank the chairman for helping to push this bill forward.

Next, I want to thank Chairman Yoho of the Asia and the Pacific Subcommittee and Congressman Lowenthal for bringing forward the Cambodia Democracy Act. I want to recognize Mr. Lowenthal, who is the lead Democratic co-sponsor of H.R. 5754, the Cambodia Democracy Act, who was here.

He was once a member of this committee and welcome back to the Foreign Affairs Committee. Thank you.

For far too often, we see authoritarian leaders following China's lead, abandoning democracy in pursuit of short-term political gain.

This bill makes existing sanctions permanent to hold Cambodia's leaders accountable for their crackdowns on democracy and stripping the Cambodian people of their rights.

I support this bill and I urge all members to do the same.

Next, I am a proud original co-sponsor of the Special Envoy to Combat and Monitor Anti-Semitism Act. Every day, more and more alarming anti-Semitic attacks shock the world and yet the Special Envoy position is still vacant.

That's outrageous. We must have a senior official to push back against the intolerance and hatred of anti-Semitism. This bill would elevate the position and require the President to put forward a nominee no more than 120 days after a vacancy.

American leadership is needed in the fight against anti-Semitism. The measure has my strong support. History has shown that failing to address anti-Semitism can lead to violence and genocide as a foreign policy priority to prevent these tragedies.

So I thank Representatives Wagner and Crowley for authoring the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act, which would improve our ability to prevent and respond to genocide and other horrific mass atrocities.

Let's work on harnessing American capabilities to stop these tragedies before they start. I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this bill.

Next, let me thank Congressmen Poe and Kennedy for their bill, the Sam Farr and Nick Castle Peace Corps Enhancement Act. This bill works to improve the health, safety, and security of Peace Corps volunteers.

The Peace Corps represents America's best values around the world. Volunteers dedicate their time to promote people-to-people diplomacy and community-based development in far corners of the world.

This is one of our most cost-effective efforts and we should do everything we can to take care of these committed young public servants. I very much support this bill.

I am also glad to support the Intercountry Adoption Information Act. Too often we hear heart wrenching stories of American families whose adoption process was halted by a foreign government's change in policy.

These families are often left in the dark when these changes happen. This bill presents a straightforward fix, requiring the State Department to provide this information that affects prospective adoptive American families.

And lastly, I'd like to thank Mr. Castro for introducing the Protecting Diplomats From Surveillance Through Consumer Devices Act.

This bill would help the Department of State prevent our adversaries from tracking American diplomats through their GPS-enabled devices.

From FitBits and smart watches to phones in cars, most of us have at least one tracking device with us at all times. Obviously, that can be a security risk. This common sense measure would make sure the department takes necessary steps to tackle this problem.

These are all good measures in front of us today. I support them all. I thank the chairman for his hard work and I urge all members to support them as well.

I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Engel.

We go to Ileana Ros-Lehtinen of Florida.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Thank you so much, Chairman Royce and Ranking Member Engel. I offer my support for all of the bills under consideration and will speak briefly in support of three of them.

I am proud to be a sponsor of my friend, Chris Smith's, bill, H.R. 1911, the Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism Act of 2017.

This elevates the critical position to the rank of Ambassador. This bill has broad bipartisan support including from many members of our committee and from all the co-chairs of our bipartisan task force for combating anti-Semitism.

As a fellow founding member and co-chair of the task force, along with Ted Deutch, Chris, and Ranking Member Engel, this is an issue that is of utmost importance, given the current climate in Europe and elsewhere toward Jews.

This vital position has remained vacant since President Trump took office and that is woefully inadequate. The United States is a leader in fighting anti-Semitism and we condemn all forms of this ancient bigotry.

But sometimes our message falls far short when other countries see that our own administration does not view this position as one that is important enough to fill.

We need our Special Envoy front and center working with other governments to help them address and fight anti-Semitism.

At a time when we see vicious attacks against Jews in France and other countries in Europe and when Jewish leaders are issuing warnings to their communities to not show outward signs of their religious identity, we need American leadership and American pressure to help counter this hatred.

But we cannot do that when we have individuals working part time, unable to devote the requisite amount of time to this issue. That is why we need the Special Envoy and that is why we need that position filled immediately.

Not only does it require full time attention but it is vital that we have someone at the Ambassador level ranked in that position so they have access to the highest level officials in other countries.

We need to show other nations how serious we are in taking this issue head on and, as such, we need to bestow upon that individual who will take this role the appropriate rank and title so they can cut through the bureaucratic red tape of other nations and have the serious conversations that need to be had.

I am also pleased that my language adding a deadline for the appointment—90 days from the enactment of this act and 120 days from when this position becomes vacant—that has been included.

And as we have seen not just with this administration but previous administrations have allowed this statutorily mandated position to remain open for an extended period of time.

That is why it's important that we put a deadline for this appointment. I urge my colleagues to support Chris' bill. I urge the administration to fill this position immediately.

I also want to offer my strong support to Ambassador Wagner's bill, H.R. 3030, the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act, of which I am proud to be a co-sponsor.

Ambassador Wagner's bill takes necessary and overdue steps to make preventing genocide and preventing atrocities a priority in our foreign policy.

For too often and in too many places, these acts are met with indifference or neutrality—the kind of neutrality that the bill's namesake rightly said only encourages more torment and abuses.

As Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel once said, whenever men and women are persecuted because of their race, religion, or political views, that place must at that moment become the center of the universe.

Whenever and wherever these acts are occurring we must work together and ensure that the United States is at the forefront with the full weight of our foreign policy to prevent them from ever happening again.

It is a core national security interest, it is our moral responsibility, and I commend always Ambassador Wagner for her work on this issue.

And finally, some words to offer my strong support for Ranking Member Engel and Steve Chabot's H.R. 5819, the BURMA Act of 2018, of which I am also proud to be a co-sponsor.

As the former chairman of the Asia and Pacific Subcommittee, Steve has been a tireless champion on human rights in Burma. I want to commend him and the ranking member for their work on this bill.

The Burmese military ethnic cleansing campaign is a crime against humanity, exactly the type of atrocity that Ambassador Wagner's bill is seeking to prevent.

Among other provisions, this bill would authorize humanitarian assistance for victims of the Burmese military campaign, limit security assistance with security forces, and impose targeted sanctions against those responsible for these serious human rights abuses.

We cannot allow this issue to go on unaddressed. I urge my colleagues to support this bill and all the measures before us today.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Ileana.

Mr. Brad Sherman of California.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Chairman, thank you for bringing forth outstanding bills. I am pleased to co-sponsor all of them.

As to the Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism Act, I commend Mr. Smith and Schneider. This is an important office. It ought to be upgraded to the rank of full Ambassador and we need to make sure that the President fills the position.

I've seen this office do outstanding work, particularly during the year and a half in which my wife served as the Deputy Special Envoy.

The two bills to deal with Asia and to come through the Asia and the Pacific Subcommittee—the Cambodia Democracy Act—I want to commend not only Mr. Yoho but also Mr. Lowenthal. He has been a constant voice for human rights in Cambodia, and I agree with him that Hun Sen's attacks on democracy need to end and reporters, among other politically imprisoned individuals, need to be released.

As to the BURMA Act, I commend the ranking member and Mr. Chabot, and we may have to go beyond this bill. As long as Burma refuses to provide citizenship and protection for the Rohingya, we have to wonder whether northern Rakhine State should be part of Burma or whether its transfer to the sovereignty of Bangladesh might be necessary in order to assure that the people who have lived there for generations have citizenship and protection. I say that knowing that we are loathe to change international borders.

The Protecting Diplomats from Surveillance Act is an important bill as is the Sam Farr Peace Corps Enhancement Act. First it's named for Sam Farr, our California colleague, who served in the Peace Corps and then was such an effective advocate for the Peace Corps.

And second, the bill focuses on the need for medical care for those serving abroad. My wife served in Togo in the Peace Corps and found it necessary to get medical care and it was quite difficult and her service was interrupted.

So the idea of making sure that medical care is available is an important addition to the Peace Corps' government statutes.

With that, I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go to Chris Smith of New Jersey.

Mr. SMITH. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman, and thank you for posting this important bill, H.R. 1911, to take the Special Envoy to Combat and Monitoring Anti-Semitism and create a position of Ambassador-at-Large.

I want to thank Brad Schneider for being the principal Democrat co-sponsor. I deeply appreciate that and, of course, as Ileana Ros-

Lehtinen, one of the other sponsors, pointed out, Eliot Engel and Ted Deutch, all of us who were part of this coalition trying to stop anti-Semitism—a bipartisan one—are all co-sponsors of this bill.

And all 80 members, 25 members of this committee, and leading Jewish organizations and other human rights groups are all for it as well.

Mr. Chairman, my friend and great former Soviet refusenik—and I actually went to the camp where he was, Perm Camp 35, in the Ural Mountains in the 1980s—he testified at two of my hearings, and I've had several.

He said that we need to expand our understanding as to what anti-Semitism is. It continues to fester and worsen with regards to hatred toward Jews—men, women, and children—simply because they are Jewish.

But he also said much of the criticism directed at Israel is also laden with anti-Semitism and said there are three D's—a 3 D test that we need to apply—and that is the three D's of modern anti-Semitism: Demonization of Israel, double standard, and delegitimization—in other words, not right to exist.

I would point out to my colleagues that Rabbi Andy Baker, the director for international Jewish affairs for the American Jewish Committee and the personal representative for combating anti-Semitism for the Organization for Security Cooperation in Europe, which I am the co-chair of the U.S. delegation, he has said, “We continue to see physical and even lethal attacks on Jews in Europe, efforts to restrict or ban elemental religious practices, and emboldened extremist political parties with an anti-Semitic agenda.”

Even as European governments have come to recognize the dangers facing their Jewish communities, many still have failed to devote the necessary resources to protect them or to be clear-eyed in recognizing the sources of the problem.

According to B'nai B'rith International, unfortunately, we continue to see a dramatic growth of anti-Semitism, particularly in Europe and the Islamic world.

The scourge has reached its highest level since World War II. B'nai B'rith International—and then they go on to talk about what they are doing.

They also pointed out in Canada last year was a record-breaking year for anti-Semitism in Canada, according to their new audit.

There is a need for a comprehensive aggressive robust effort by the United States. I would point out to my colleagues in 2004 Congress passed and signed into law the Global Anti-Semitism Review Act of 2004. I was the prime author of the provisions that created both the Office to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism in the State Department and the position of Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism to lead it.

H.R. 1911, however, would elevate the Special Envoy to Ambassador, and that gravitas makes a difference both within the building and when he or she takes this message throughout the world.

It would mandate that the Special Envoy serve as the primary advisor to the United States Government, including the Secretary of State, on monitoring and combating anti-Semitism in foreign countries and coordinate efforts across the government.

It also would prohibit the Special Envoy from being double hatted, something that we faced early on after the 2004 act. Give it to somebody else. Expand their portfolio. That dilution of the mandate weakens the efforts.

I would also point out that we have language saying that the envoy—and that would be an Ambassador—needs to be nominated within 90 days of the enactment of this act because we have had unbelievable delays no matter who is President.

And I would point out Bush took 583 days, Obama 307 days, and then when there was a change 227 days after that when the one that he originally had in the position left.

Long delays—nobody leading the ship or being at the helm. I would point out, however, that when Special Envoys Greg Rickman, Hannah Rosenthal, and Ira Foreman had the job, they did a tremendous job and were the eyes and ears and they were the voice of our Government in combating this scourge.

I want to thank everyone for doing this and backing it. We do have a great deal of support for it, and the time has come. There should be no further delay.

We do call on President Trump. We did—all of us asked Secretary Tillerson to move in this direction. We are now asking Secretary Pompeo to make this appointment and to do it immediately, and then, God willing, this becomes law, we can then work to elevate that Special Envoy to the Ambassador.

Thank you.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go to Mr. Gerry Connolly of Virginia.

Mr. CONNOLLY. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Just I want to thank you for putting all these bills on the agenda today. Glad to sponsor as an original co-sponsor or as a co-sponsor of all of them.

I particularly want to highlight four. The BURMA Act—really important that we support the democratic transition while also holding accountable those that have engaged in unbelievable violence against part of the population. I think this bill strikes that balance.

The Sam Farr Peace Corps Enhancement Act—I was privileged to work with my friend and colleague, Judge Ted Poe, a number of years ago in the previous administration in helping Peace Corps work through a sexual assault policy.

This bill adds to that and honors our former colleague, a very gentle and wonderful man, Sam Farr.

The Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act—Elie Wiesel was a towering figure of the last century and a survivor of the Holocaust who, out of that incredible experience, nonetheless understood how to fight persecution while promoting atonement and trying reconciliation for warring parties, and it's fitting that we should name this bill after him.

And finally, the Cambodia Democracy Act—I was privileged a number of years ago to work on a project with the National Democratic Institute in Cambodia to help develop the first policy guidelines and legislation government local elections.

It's very sad for me to see it sliding back by the Hun Sen government in Cambodia and, hopefully, this legislation will be the building block for a robust U.S. policy and allied policy to stop that slide and to return to democratic tradition.

I thank the chair.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Connolly.

Mr. Steve Chabot of Ohio.

Mr. CHABOT. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and thank you for holding this markup today, and I support H.R. 5819, the BURMA Act.

It's a bill that we worked with Mr. Engel and the chair, Mr. Royce, and other members. I think this is really an important bill and it holds the perpetrators of the crimes committed against the Rohingya Muslims accountable in a strong and meaningful way.

The news from Rakhine State in Burma and in the Cox's Bazar in Bangladesh regarding the humanitarian crisis has been nothing short of abysmal.

As former chair of the Asia and Pacific Subcommittee, I'd point out that this ongoing crackdown is only the most recent persecution of the Rohingya Muslims but it's certainly the worst.

The Rohingya fled to neighboring Bangladesh and nearly 700,000 new refugees are living on only a few thousand acres, and although the Rohingya continue to display their grit and resolve, their living conditions are horrendous—just unspeakable.

I believe it's necessary to point out that we had sanctions in place against Burma's military for years. Throughout Burma's military rule, we imposed a number of increasingly severe sanctions designed to specifically target the military and its leaders and economically isolate them from the rest of the world.

In large part, these sanctions worked, and the people of Burma had free and fair elections that brought Aung San Suu Kyi and the NLD to power.

Unfortunately, the previous administration quickly touted Burma as a success story and then, regrettably, almost immediately relaxed restrictions on their military.

A number of us warned—at the time—that this democratic transformation was not complete and that the former President's optimism was premature.

Unfortunately, this concern ultimately came true. There is no question that the plight of the Rohingya was caused by the Burmese military officials and their allies.

Women and children have been reported being raped. They watch the murder of their sons and husbands. There are reports that the Burmese military has committed truly unspeakable acts against civilians including babies and children.

One thing is clear. This is textbook genocide. It appears to be the worst ethnic cleansing of the 21st century. So that is precisely why the BURMA Act of 2018 is so fundamentally important.

Sanctions must be brought against the perpetrators of these crimes. We must show the world that these actions will not go unpunished. Many provisions in this bill are very important.

However, I'd like to highlight a particular section and that's forfeiture of assets and property, and I want to thank my staff and my colleagues on this committee and also on the Judiciary Committee and we worked with them and their staff. We want to thank them for their cooperation in insisting that this language be included in the bill. It will be crystal clear to the Burmese military officials that are responsible for this senseless violence that one way or another they will pay for their crimes.

Furthermore, it's my hope that proceeds earned through the forfeiture of property provisions will eventually be used for assistance and restitution for the very people the Burmese military have victimized.

So I would urge my colleagues to support the BURMA Act, and then I, with the short time I have left here, I'd like to mention as co-chair of Congressional Caucus on Cambodia—and I again want to, as others have already recognized, Mr. Lowenthal for his hard work in that area.

We worked together in a bipartisan way to help the people of Cambodia in a whole range of ways and so I want to mention the Cambodia Democracy Act and commend Chairman Yoho for his hard work and leadership on that and also Mr. Lowenthal and everyone who contributed to this legislation for their hard work.

The Cambodia Democracy Act demonstrates our continued commitment to the Cambodian people by targeting sanctions on Hun Sen and his cronies who have systematically worked to eliminate Cambodia's democracy.

Further, with Cambodia's election now only a few months away, at the end of July, this legislation is very timely and sends a clear message that we will not tolerate such lawless actions and I would urge my colleagues to support it.

I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

Mr. Ted Deutch of Florida.

Mr. DEUTCH. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Chairman Royce, Ranking Member Engel, thanks for bringing these bills forward. I am proud to support all of the measures today and will speak briefly on just four of them.

First, I wanted to thank Chairman Yoho for the Cambodia Democracy Act of 2018, and given the ongoing threats in Cambodia to free and fair elections this summer, the challenges to a free and independent press and the lack of respect for NGOs, I am grateful to the leadership of our colleague, Representative Lowenthal, who's here and has introduced this bill with Chairman Yoho for taking on a vitally important issue and showing the respect for human rights that the people of Cambodia deserve.

I am also proud to co-sponsor the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act and I would recognize Ambassador Wagner for her work on this bill.

Out of the darkness of the Holocaust, Elie Wiesel carried the "never again" banner to prevent genocides or mass atrocities in the future.

With his support, we created the United State Holocaust Memorial Museum—a living memorial to those who perished in the Holocaust and a research and education center to cover mass atrocities that may be taking place right in front of our eyes.

Tragically, even in 2018 these atrocities continue and we don't need to look any further than Burma. Civilians continue to be targeted based on their religion, race, ethnicity, or some other criteria that drives people to commit mass murder.

If we want to be able to say and mean, “never again,” then we need to strengthen our laws and empower the government officials to carry it out.

This bill is a significant step in that direction. It states unambiguously that genocide or mass atrocities occurring in another part of the world pose a threat to our national security.

The methodical and deliberate mass killing of civilians is not only egregious and immoral, it is a crime under international law and a threat to what we as Americans stand for.

This bill will also train our Foreign Service officers, often on the diplomatic front lines, to identify warning signs and to direct the administration to report to Congress and the American people what steps it has taken to prevent or stop mass atrocities. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation and improve our Government’s response to mass atrocities around the world.

Next, I’d like to express my support for the BURMA Act. The plight of the Rohingya has been painful to watch and I am especially discouraged that it is happening in a country that once appeared to be on the track toward a peaceful civilian-led democracy.

The Burmese military’s treatment of the Rohingya people and the resulting mass exodus into Bangladesh represents a travesty on a shocking scale.

I am very proud to co-sponsor this legislation. I believe it’s important to codify the human rights abuses committed by the Burmese military and security forces while outlining the policy of the United States to support Burma’s transition to real democracy.

The bill’s emphasis on the safe return of the Rohingya to Burma and the promotion of freedom of the press are vital and important steps.

Only until all of the people are included as full citizens and are allowed to return, acts of ethnic cleansing are ended, and freedom of religion and the press are ensured will Burma again resemble a nation moving toward real democracy.

And finally, I’d like to voice my support for the Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism Act, a bill of which I am an original co-sponsor.

I want to recognize Congressman Chris Smith for leading this bill with Chairman Ileana Ros-Lehtinen, my many colleagues, including Ranking Member Engel, Congressman Schneider, Congressman Lowey, Congressman Veasey, Roskam, Weber, and Congressman Bilirakis.

It’s been well over a year now and the administration has failed to nominate a Special Envoy to combat anti-Semitism around the world. It’s unacceptable. The position was created in 2004 with bipartisan support by provisions authored by Congressman Smith.

This is a law that cannot be ignored. The Special Envoy and its staff are tasked with monitoring worldwide anti-Semitism, building coalitions by working with governments and NGOs, and acting as our nation’s leading global advocate for combating anti-Semitism.

This, in a time when we are seeing more anti-Semitic activity rise from the political left and right. We are hearing appalling stories like the Holocaust survivor who was brutally murdered in her apartment and our Government cannot be silent in moments like these.

The United States has historically been a leader in calling out anti-Semites and pushing governments to do more to protect their Jewish citizens.

This is not a time to give up that leadership role. We have to address it when this troubling—address this troubling trend with action.

Jews are often the canary in the coal mine. Hatred of a country's Jewish citizens confirms the presence of hatred in that country and everyone in those countries share in its interest in combating this and all hatred.

With this bill, Congress recognizes that this is a problem worldwide, that it is our Government's obligation to combat anti-Semitism, to defeat this bigotry and defend Jewish communities.

Filling this position must be a top priority and I urge my colleagues to vote for this bill, and I thank the chairman.

Chairman ROYCE. Mr. Joe Wilson of South Carolina.

Mr. WILSON. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I am grateful to Chairman Ed Royce and Ranking Member Eliot Engel for holding this markup on critical issues such as protecting human rights, enhancing diplomat and Peace Corps volunteers' security and safety, and improving international adoption procedures, all of which I am grateful to co-sponsor.

I especially want to thank Congresswoman Ann Wagner for introducing the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act. Elie Wiesel, who passed away less than 2 years ago, survived both Auschwitz and Buchenwald Nazi concentration camps after having lost his family to the camps.

This legislation contributes to his memory by requiring the U.S. Government to train Foreign Service officers to spot warning signs of genocide and to provide poor nation information sharing among the intelligence community in order to prevent future crimes against humanity.

I also want to thank Congressman Chris Smith for his providing the Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism Act of 2017. While the Department of State should be routinely setting the instruction and roles of numerous Special Envoys, some Special Envoys such as the envoy to monitor and combat anti-Semitism will operate best by having Ambassador status with direct access to the Secretary of State.

Sadly, we see anti-Semitism today as there is criticism of the U.S. Embassy being located in Jerusalem.

Lastly, I want to express my gratitude to Ranking Member Eliot Engel for introducing the BURMA Act of 2018. This act states for the record that the Burmese military is responsible for the murder and ethnic cleansing of the Rohingya in Burma and provides for sanctions in response to such crimes until Burma becomes more transparent.

Burma should also deliver on its nonproliferation commitments by fully disclosing its past and present nuclear activities to international inspectors, which was included by an amendment I provided.

Today's markup legislation shows the world that the United States cares deeply about the priorities we place on human rights and I urge their passage.

I now yield the balance of my time to Judge Ted Poe.

Mr. POE. I thank the gentleman from South Carolina.

I want to speak specifically on the Sam Farr/Nick Castle Peace Corps Act. I want to thank Congressman Joe Kennedy for his bipartisan leadership in this and the Kennedy family and their long history of supporting the Peace Corps.

Mr. Chairman, unfortunately, over the last few years, bad things have happened to our Peace Corps volunteers when they go abroad and we solved some of those problems with the Kate Puzey Act. This is a follow-up to that legislation.

I want to thank the Health and Justice for Peace Corps volunteers and the National Peace Corps Association for their input and information on what is happening to our Peace Corps volunteers.

This legislation does several things. It requires that we provide qualified medical doctors for our Peace Corps volunteers. It increases the time for the Sexual Assault Advisory Council to another 5 years.

It provides provisions in the protection of sexual assault and harassment as revealed in the Office of Special Counsel report detailing what has happened to our Peace Corps volunteers abroad and when our Peace Corps volunteers return to America, some with injuries and serious medical issues, make sure they are taken care of and the bureaucratic red tape of the Federal Government gets out of the way so they can be treated.

And I also want to thank the chairman for his leadership in this legislation. I ask unanimous consent to provide my entire written statement on this bill and these other bills into the record.

Chairman ROYCE. Mr. David Cicilline of Rhode Island.

Mr. CICILLINE. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and thank you to and Ranking Member Engel for bringing these bills before the committee for markup. I am a proud co-sponsor of all the bills and would like to specifically speak to four.

First, H.R. 1911, the Special Envoy to Monitor Anti-Semitism Act of 2017, which raises the status of the Special Envoy to Ambassador in recognition of the position's important role and responsibility.

Earlier this year, I joined the ranking member and several other of my colleagues in calling on the President to prioritize the appointment of the Special Envoy to monitor and combat anti-Semitism.

Unfortunately, we are still awaiting a nomination on this position. Since the position of Special Envoy to monitor and combat anti-Semitism was created in 2004, anti-Semitism and anti-Semitic attacks throughout the world have become more frequent, violent, and deadly. These developments are completely unacceptable.

In the United States, the number of anti-Semitic incidents rose 57 percent in 2017—the largest single-year increase on record.

Internationally state-sponsored Holocaust distortion and denial taking place in Europe, particularly in Poland and Ukraine, has coincided with the increasing incidence of anti-Semitic language and actions.

The United States must assume a leadership position by firmly standing against anti-Semitism, upholding values that are fair and just to all, and the Office of the Special Envoy continues to be a crucial contributor to the development and implementation of policies designed to combat anti-Semitism around the world.

H.R. 3030, the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act, and H.R. 5819, the BURMA Act, are also incredibly important.

Elie Wiesel was a Romanian Nobel Prize-winning writer, teacher, and activist best known for his memoir “Night” in which he hauntingly recounted his experiences surviving the Holocaust.

In one passage, he described his thoughts about the murders going on around him.

He wrote,

“Never shall I forget that smoke. Never shall I forget the little faces of the children whose bodies I saw turn into wreaths of smoke beneath the silent blue sky. Never shall I forget those flames which consumed my faith forever. Never shall I forget the nocturnal silence which deprived me for all eternity of the desire to live. Never shall I forget those moments which murdered my God and my soul and turned my dreams to dust. Never shall I forget these things, even if I am condemned to live long as God himself. Never.”

I wish I could say that the events Mr. Wiesel recounted were singular and only a part of our past. Unfortunately, genocides and mass atrocities continue to occur.

I was in Burma last November and visited Myanmar as well as Bangladesh and saw firsthand the brutal efforts underway to eradicate the Rohingya population and the most horrifying of unspeakable brutality being caused by the Burmese military against the Rohingya population and it is important that the world hear the United States strongly condemn this and take action to hold those accountable, and I am very proud to be a cosponsor of both H.R. 3030 and H.R. 5819.

These bills not only reaffirm our nation’s commitment to prevent and mitigate acts of genocide and other human rights atrocities but puts actions behind our words.

By strengthening our nation’s ability to identify, address, and respond to the drivers of these atrocities, we hope to prevent further mass atrocities.

By empowering the President to sanction perpetrators of genocide, we hope to bring accountability and an end to the current situation in Burma and offer these governments the possibility of joining the international community and holding perpetrators of mass atrocities and genocides accountable, because, like Mr. Wiesel, we should never forget.

And finally, the Cambodian Democracy Act—I am proud to be a co-sponsor of this legislation, which also authorizes sanctions against individuals found to have undermined democracy in Cambodia or to have committed serious human rights violations associated with undermining democracy.

I want to acknowledge the leadership of Chairman Yoho and Congressman Lowenthal, who’s with us today, who has been a champion not only of this legislation but of respect for human rights here in the United States and around the world, and we thank him for his leadership.

With these bills we affirm U.S. leadership in countering atrocities, supporting democratic development, and supporting human rights. I am pleased to support each of these bills being considered today and urge their passage, and thank you, Mr. Chairman.

And I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, David.

We go now to Mike McCaul of Texas.

Mr. MCCAUL. I thank you, Mr. Chairman and Ranking Member, for holding today's markup on these bipartisan measures.

I'd also like to thank Congressman Castro and his staff for their hard work on the Protecting Diplomats from Surveillance Through Consumer Devices Act and I am proud to be the lead co-sponsor of this bill.

It's a simple yet a necessary response to the revelations in January. GPS-enabled electronic devices such as FitBits and Jawbones exposed diplomatic and military personnel to security vulnerabilities abroad.

The data from these devices are publicly available, revealing the locations of key U.S. Government facilities across the globe and the movements of our personnel.

As such the bill requires the Secretary of State to establish a policy concerning the use of location-tracking consumer devices including GPS at U.S. diplomatic and consular facilities.

So I'd like to thank the State Department also for taking this matter seriously. I think it's a vulnerability that we need to close the gap on to protect our diplomats and our security abroad and I look forward to congressional action in protecting them as they serve our nation.

So, Mr. Chairman, with that, thank you for moving these bills through the committee and I'll yield back the balance of my time.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. McCaul.

We now go to Lois Frankel of Florida.

Ms. FRANKEL. Thank you, Mr. Chair, and thank you and the ranking member and all my colleagues for that leadership and I welcome back Mr. Lowenthal to our committee and sitting here. Thank you for your work on the Cambodia Democracy Act.

I want to—I support all these bills here today. I just want to make a comment on two of them.

The first one, the Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism Act of 2017, and I think we all know that global anti-Semitism is, unfortunately, on the rise.

Jewish communities face bigotry and violence at levels not seen in decades. I want to give an example—Mireille Knoll, an 85-year-old Holocaust survivor living in Paris, loved by friends and neighbors, known for welcoming everyone in her home, in March an attacker broke into her apartment, stabbing her 11 times and burning her alive.

The French Government described it as anti-Semitic—yes, you would say that. She had escaped the Holocaust only to be brutally murdered in her own home just because she was Jewish.

According to a study, Europe's largest Jewish communities are experiencing a normalization and main streaming of anti-Semitism not seen since World War II and yet—and this is—I do not understand this—nearly a year and a half into this administration, a Special Envoy to monitor and combat anti-Semitism position be responsible for—responsible for developing and implementing policies to combat anti-Semitism worldwide, this position remains vacant.

And I just want to say that I think it's dangerous and it's shameful and—because combating anti-Semitism must be a foreign policy priority. So this important legislation, it elevates the role of our anti-Semitism envoy to that of Ambassador and requires him or her to report directly to the Secretary of State.

I'd also like to draw attention to the BURMA Act of 2018. Last fall, we had a hearing in this committee about the Rohingya crisis and last week the Democratic Working Women's Group heard from U.N. Refugee Agency's goodwill ambassador, Kristin Davis, an actress and humanitarian, and I think we have heard this from my other colleagues—about more than 700,000 Rohingya refugees have been forced to flee Burma by security forces—villages burned, unarmed civilians shot, women and girls assaulted.

The United States Government has called these actions ethnic cleansing and many in the international community believe it's genocide, and that's why this bill is so important.

It imposes sanctions on those who have committed acts of violence and limits security assistance to Burma until it's certified that human rights abuses have ended, like the horror of a mother who was forced to stand in a river at gunpoint, holding her child in her arms as she squeezed her baby tight.

Soldiers clubbed her in the face, tore her child out of her arms, hurled them into a fire, and then dragged her into a house where she was gang raped. It's hard to even say this.

And just, unbelievably, she's one of hundreds of thousands of Rohingya refugees who are either women or children in refugee camps in Bangladesh.

Fortunately—I want to underline this—the U.N. Population Fund is on the ground with midwives and mobile health camps to care for survivors of rape and conduct information sessions to stop human trafficking.

And since we all care about this tragedy, I want to point out that this administration has cruelly cut off funding to the U.N. Population Fund for the second year in a row, leaving it to the rest of the international communities to fill in the gap.

With monsoon season approaching, floodings and disease outbreaks expected, many of the lives of these refugees who have suffered so much are already going to get harder.

So, again, I strongly support the adoption of this bill and I urge my colleagues to look beyond and recognize that our response to a humanitarian crisis will not be sufficient unless we restore the funding to the U.N. FPA. I thank my colleagues and I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go to Congresswoman Ann Wagner from Missouri.

Mrs. WAGNER. I thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I am speaking today in support of the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act, a bill I introduced to improve U.S. efforts to prevent mass atrocity crimes.

The legislation honors the legacy of Nobel Laureate Elie Wiesel and his life work to fight evil around the world. Mr. Wiesel was just 15 years old when the Nazis deported him and his family to Auschwitz.

He was the only member of his family to survive, and having witnessed the near total destruction of his people, he spent his life defending the persecuted.

As Mr. Wiesel understood so well, the true horror of genocide is that it is preventable. We are haunted by repeated failures and missed opportunities to end these tragedies before they begin and I know everyone in this room agrees that there is more the United States can and must do to help vulnerable communities and persecuted people around the world.

The reality is that good intentions and platitudes like “never again” have not prevented the deaths of hundreds of thousands of civilians at the hands of the Assad regime nor the ethnic cleansing of Rohingya Muslims in Burma.

It is past time to take a clear-eyed look at our policy and programmatic mechanisms for atrocity prevention and ask ourselves what can we do better.

The U.S. Government has the capacity to effect real change and the Elie Wiesel Act expresses Congress’ strong support for better utilization of existing resources, particularly the United States Atrocities Prevention Board, which is dedicated to coordinating U.S. atrocity prevention and response, and the Complex Crisis Fund, which supports agile efficient responses to unforeseen crises overseas.

The bill also expresses the Congress’ belief that the Atrocities Prevention Board should conduct outreach with civil society groups and NGOs to receive assistance for its efforts and provide greater public understanding of the work of the board.

Additionally, we require the administration to evaluate existing prevention efforts, report on countries at risk of genocide and mass atrocity crimes, and recommend concrete improvements to our early warning and response systems.

The bill also mandates that U.S. Foreign Service officers are trained in atrocities recognition and response. Should this bill become law, America’s diplomats will be better equipped to respond to conflict and act before violence spirals out of control.

The Elie Wiesel Act establishes that the official policy of the United States is to regard atrocity prevention as a core national security interest and to address root causes of conflict through our humanitarian, development, and strategic endeavors.

Let me be clear. Genocide is preventable and the United States is a global leader in genocide and atrocities response. But we must ensure that our efforts are better targeted toward prevention so that no one ever becomes a victim of violence in the first place.

H.R. 3030 is an important first step and I thank the committee and the many civil society organizations that have come alongside us for their strong support of this legislation.

I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Congresswoman Dina Titus from Nevada.

Ms. TITUS. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and thank you and Ranking Member Engel for holding this markup on these important bills.

I am a co-sponsor of several of them and I support all the legislation being considered. I also want to extend my thanks to the many people aforementioned who worked so hard to bring this legislation before us.

I am proud to co-sponsor H.R. 1911, the Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism Act. This elevates and empowers the position of the Special Envoy so that the United States can continue to lead in combating anti-Semitism globally.

We see a rise in anti-Semitic incidents, threats, and rhetoric around the world these days, and hateful groups and individuals are now empowered by being able to connect and coordinate online.

We must show other countries that the United States takes combating anti-Semitism seriously and this starts with high-profile leaders in the administration.

But it's not just this Special Envoy position that remains vacant at the State Department. Others include the Special Envoy for Human Rights of LGBTI Persons and the Special Advisor for International Disability Rights.

By leaving these important roles vacant, we are relinquishing U.S. leadership in fighting violence, hatred, and discrimination among other targeted populations.

So I hope that Secretary Pompeo will make appointing qualified people to these important positions a priority early in his tenure.

I am also a co-sponsor of H.R. 3989, the Protecting Diplomats from Surveillance Through Consumer Devices Act, and I thank Congressman Castro and McCaul for their quick response to the public release of GPS tracking data of U.S. personnel and activities abroad.

Our policies and security must keep up with advances in technology to protect our diplomats, service members, and other personnel serving overseas.

So I look forward to supporting these bipartisan bills and seeing their swift passage on the House floor.

And I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go to Chairman Ted Yoho.

Mr. YOHO. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and I'd like to congratulate you and the ranking member for another bipartisan markup. I think it's just a credit to you and what you've done.

And I'd also like to thank you for including the legislation our team authored with the help of this committee—the Cambodian Democracy Act of 2018 in this markup today.

I want to thank you, Ranking Member Engel, Mr. Sherman, Mr. Chabot, and Mr. Lowenthal for their support as well. This ANS includes language from Mr. Lowenthal's House Resolution 661. So I want to once again thank him for working with us in a bipartisan manner. I appreciate it, Alan.

As you well know, Cambodia is set to hold general elections in just 2 months. So the inclusion of this legislation is very timely.

Following regional elections last year and the 2013 general elections, opposition parties saw unprecedented gains, helping to consolidate the opposition movement.

Many observers believe that in July's national election the CNRP would have won an unprecedented parliamentary majority. Unfortunately, Cambodia's authoritarian leader, Hun Sen, had other plans.

Over the last few years, Hun Sen's brutal consolidation of power played out on numerous fronts. Hun Sen has chilled support for the opposition by threatening to deploy the military if elections don't go his way and has used his control of the government to dismantle threats to his grip on power.

Illustrations of such, 2 years ago, the CNRP lawmakers were savagely dragged from their cars and beaten by Hun Sen's bodyguards while the perpetrators served token sentences. They were then promoted to colonel barely 2 weeks after being released from prison. Such is the reward for crushing the opposition.

Last September, authorities arrested Kem Sokha, the leader of the CNRP, and charged him with treason, allegedly for participating in an American plot to undermine Hun Sen's regime.

Cambodia's Supreme Court followed up on this act by dissolving the CNRP, again citing the party's involvement in an alleged U.S.-backed plot.

The regime has also shut down the Office of National Democratic Institute, a preeminent NGO that is active in promoting democracies around the world, and forced the closures of independent media outlets that challenged its control over information.

Radio Free Asia, the Voice of America, and other publications and radio stations have been shuttered. To shine a light on these abuses, late last year we held a hearing entitled "Cambodia's Descent" in which we heard from experts including Mona Kem, the daughter of imprisoned opposition leader, Kem Sokha, on Cambodia's crackdown on political opposition and civil societies.

As Mona Kem testified, we must place targeted financial sanctions on Cambodian Government officials identified as undermining democracy. This bill does precisely that and is a product of many of the recommendations made at that hearing.

We must send a signal to Hun Sen and his CPP cronies that they cannot deny the freedoms that the Cambodian people yearn and desire.

Although Cambodia often does not get the attention it deserves, the human rights and democracy in Cambodia have broad implications for the region and the world.

Cambodia is a member of ASEAN, the premier international forum in Southeast Asia, with nine other nations and accounts for 633 million people and $2.5 trillion in trade.

Every one of its 10 members must agree in order for the bloc to act. So any nation operating outside the bounds of humanity and decency will have an outsized effect on the entire group.

This is such an important issue not just for the Cambodian people but for that whole region and, really, for the rest of the world.

Again, I thank the chairman and ranking member for considering this measure today and I want to thank my colleagues for their support as well.

I yield back. Thank you.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Yoho. We go now to Mr. Brad Schneider of Illinois.

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Thank you, Chairman Royce.

I want to thank the chairman and ranking member for holding today's markup and, in particular, for your leadership in bringing this legislation before our committee this morning.

In particular, I am proud to join Congressman Chris Smith and Ranking Member Engel in introducing H.R. 1911, the Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism Act of 2017.

This important bill would elevate the Special Envoy to the rank of Ambassador and today's amendment in the nature of a substitute would require the President to nominate someone for this position no later than 90 days after the bill's enactment and no more than 120 days after the position is vacated.

I am extremely concerned and frustrated that after many pleas to do so this administration has yet to fill the position of Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism, especially given the rise in anti-Semitism across the globe.

We need to do all we can to support our allies and combat anti-Semitism wherever it manifests itself, and I hope the administration sees the value in this position and will fill it soon.

I am also pleased to support H.R. 3030, the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act, of which I am a co-sponsor. I appreciate the work of my colleagues, Congresswoman Wagner and Congressman Crowley, in sponsoring this bill and the support from many stakeholders including the Holocaust Memorial Museum, Friends Committee on National Legislation, to name just a few.

Elie Wiesel taught us that we must never forget the atrocities committed during the Holocaust and that we must do everything in our power to ensure this type of war never happens again.

Unfortunately, hatred, persecution, and genocide continue to unfold in many parts of the globe and therefore legislation such as the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act is still necessary.

This bill affirms the importance of continuing to strengthen our Government's efforts to prevent and respond to atrocities and states that it is in our national security interests to prevent genocide and other atrocities.

The bill also takes important steps to require training for Foreign Service officers who are often at the front lines so they can better detect the early warnings signs of potential violence and atrocities.

I also thank the chairman for including my amendment to H.R. 5626, the Intercountry Adoption Information Act of 2018 to ensure we know the date upon which a country implements a policy to prevent or prohibit adoptions involving immigration to the United States.

Adopting a child can be a long, but nevertheless life-transforming, process. So we owe it prospective parents to ensure they have useful and up-to-date information about foreign country adoption policies.

Finally, I am pleased to see inclusion of the BURMA Act in today's markup. The violence of human rights abuses committed by the Burmese military and security forces against the ethnic Rohingya in Burma's Rakhine State since August 2017 are truly horrific.

Nearly 700,000 Rohingya refugees have fled and are living in Bangladesh. I hope this bill draws the attention of the Burmese Government and security establishment and that they will stop this violence and allow Rohingya refugees to safely return home.

I, again, thank the chairman and the ranking member for convening today's markup and with that, I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go now to Mr. Tom Garrett of Virginia.

Mr. GARRETT. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I'd like to begin briefly on 5626, Intercountry Adoption Information Act. I think, Mr. Chairman, that this is an extraordinary piece of legislation and that's highlighted by my personal experience as a member in this body wherein I've come to know a constituent who spent 7 years working to adopt a 6-year-old child—that is, she started before the child was born—from a foreign nation only to have been wrung through the process such that she's traveled back and forth to the African continent 14 times and spent countless tens of thousands, probably more, dollars by virtue of the fact that we did not receive information or she did not receive information with regard to the change of the nation from which she chose to adopt this child as it related to their status as a member of the Hague Convention on Adoption.

So that we could change this one life story of which I know and so many others by virtue of this legislation is testimony significant and sufficient in my regard—in my estimation to justify this fine piece of bipartisan legislation.

Moving on, the Sam Farr Peace Corps Enhancement Act really recognizes the ability of the Peace Corps to do in a very cost effective way what America tends to not do so well for itself.

That is to say, in a world where we dominate mass and global media, if images of America seen by foreign nationals are of violent car chases, drug dealers, and philandering perhaps an opinion of the United States might be poor.

But when your first image of America is of a volunteer who seeks to bring clean water to your village, perhaps then your image of America will be positive.

And that, Mr. Chairman, is a step toward creating a world with peace and opportunity expanded regardless of race, ethnicity, religion, or geographic location and therefore, too, also a worthwhile bill.

From there I'd move to H.R. 1911 and the promotion of the envoy to an Ambassador status as it relates to monitoring and pursuing anti-Semitism.

It strikes me that the worst elements of the BDS movement as it relates to Israel and the actions of Israel and the Jewish-based nation state that it is rises to that level.

So many accounts have been put forth by my colleagues on both sides of the aisle today of the experiences of Jewish people living not only in Israel and across the world but even in nations where one would think the lessons of anti-Semitism would be learned like Germany, like France, torn from contemporary news sources.

And so it is time to recognize that indeed in the words of my colleague, Mr. Sherman, and the Jewish community oftentimes is a canary in a coal mine, and promotion to Ambassador status of this position is one that will help us, hopefully, avoid repeating the mistakes of the past.

Moving to H.R. 3030 and tangentially to H.R. 5819 and 5754, and I say tangentially because both of these nations have experienced things that one reasonable observer might well call genocide within the last two generations, I think it's noteworthy not only to take a leading role in combating genocide but also to acknowledge the prevalence of this horrific practice in the world today.

All too many people are all too well aware, and some are not, of the horrific outcomes of the genocide perpetrated by the Germans during the Second World War.

But also might I point out that in the last 30 years there was a genocide in Bosnia with 2.2 million people displaced and up to 200,000 killed, up to 50,000 rapes.

In Rwanda, where 1 million people, it is estimated, died in 100 days. That's 10,000 human lives per day for 100 days, and 2 million were displaced.

The genocide and mass displacement in Iraq and Syria where up to 6 million displaced individuals seek simply a place to live and sleep and raise families safely, where the Christian population of the nation of Iraq estimated at 1.5 million in 2004 is today perhaps one-sixth of that, where Yazidis and Assyrians and Mandaeans have been rooted out and entire communities and cultures destroyed by ISIS and their ilk, the Rohingya genocide again brought up in the BURMA Act, the Cambodian genocide where a Communist utopia resulted in one-quarter of the entire population of the country being massacred, the Armenian genocide where 1.5 million Christians were killed by the Ottoman Turks because they were a religious minority, and the Kurdish genocides—with an S—that have taken place repeatedly throughout history and which we may be on the verge of now—if the United States cannot adopt a leading role in advocating against this sort of violence, who will?

If this body will not speak, who will? And so, Mr. Chairman and Ranking Member, it is with pride that I have the opportunity to support these measures and be a participant in this process because the names of the peoples whose lives we save will never be known.

But, tragically, the result of inaction would be that the names of the people who died might never be known as well.

With that, I'd yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Mr. Espailat of New York.

Mr. ESPAILLAT. Yes, you got it right.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and of course, I want to thank Ranking Member Engel. Thank you so much for continuing this important bipartisan work of this committee.

Several of the bills today take a common thread, which to prevent genocides and mass atrocities and to combat patterns that may lead to such horrible events.

We, as leaders in the world community of nations, have a responsibility to do our part in ensuring that these heinous crimes never, never happen again.

That is why I am a proud co-sponsor of the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act. Elie Wiesel was not just defined by his experience surviving the Holocaust.

Rather, he used that experience to drive humanitarian work that he devoted his whole life to. This bill would require training of Foreign Service officers on recognizing early warnings signs of mass atrocities and will further require an annual report to Congress on potential threats of mass atrocities.

I hope that this bill will be a stronger starting point for improving our Government's responsiveness to man's atrocities and will ensure that we are equipped to mitigate a response to emerging crises around the world.

As we saw in the Anti-Defamation League report, anti-Semitic incidents were up 60 percent in 2017. The Special Envoy to Monitor and Combat Anti-Semitism Act is as important as ever.

This act will bring forward the position of Special Envoy appointed by the President and the Senate, elevating it to the rank of Ambassador and directly reporting to the President.

Obviously, it will ensure that our Government has a stronger coordinated effort to monitor and combat anti-Semitism.

We all know the horrible history of anti-Semitism and it is incumbent upon all of us to oppose it whenever and wherever we see it.

This rises not only to the level of genocide prevention but also to violent attacks we have seen across the world and through just everyday language that is used to demean and attack the Jewish people.

We know that small acts of anti-Semitism can lead to further intolerance, and I am proud to support a bill that recognizes the important work we must undertake to combat intolerance of any kind.

We have seen far too many times occurrences of mass atrocities in recent years. The Rohingya people have endured terrible unthinkable violence at the hands of the Burmese military.

As this bill I just spoke about entails, we must stand up to these horrific human rights violations wherever they occur.

The BURMA Act will sanction and hold accountable the Burmese military and security forces responsible for the ethnic cleansing of the Rohingya people and further serve to encourage a full democratic transition in this country.

We must be consistent in our values and our commitment to combat genocide and we must work with the people of Burma to support national reconciliation and constitutional reforms that ensure that violence of this kind never, never happens again.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and I yield back the remaining part of my time.

Chairman ROYCE. Mr. Dan Donovan of New York.

Mr. DONOVAN. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I support all the bills here today but especially the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act of 2017 and the BURMA Act of 2018, both of which I have co-sponsored.

It saddens me that we still need bills to combat genocide. We must do whatever we can to save lives and end destabilizing conflicts across the globe.

This committee will continue to work in a bipartisan fashion as always to combat these atrocities and with that, Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

Any other members seeking recognition?

Hearing no further requests, the question occurs on the items considered en bloc.

All those in favor, say aye.

All those opposed, no.

In the opinion of the chair, the ayes have it and the measures considered en bloc are agreed to.

Without objection, each measure in the en bloc is ordered favorably reported as amended as a single amendment in the nature of a substitute and staff is directed to make any technical and conforming changes and the chair is authorized to seek House consideration under suspension of the rules.

So that will conclude our business for today and I want to thank Ranking Member Engel and all of the committee members for their contributions and assistance with this markup today.

We stand adjourned.

[Whereupon, at 11:57 a.m., the committee was adjourned.]

Statement for the Record
Submitted by Representative Ted Poe

I would like to thank Chairman Royce and Ranking Member Engel for bringing the Sam Farr Peace Corps Enhancement Act to markup. Representative Kennedy and I introduced this bill to protect our Peace Corps volunteers, our angels abroad.

This bill builds on and extends protections for volunteers that became law as the result of the Kate Puzey Act which I introduced and finally became law in 2011. HR 2259 protects volunteers at every stage of their service with the Peace Corps: the onboarding process, their time in country, and when they return home.

Before they make a decision regarding where to serve, many potential volunteers are not fully aware of critical information like health risks and crime rates in various countries. This bill requires the Peace Corps to provide this information to volunteers upfront so that they can make an informed decision regarding where to serve.

While they are deployed in country, the bill requires that the Peace Corps ensures volunteers have access to qualified medical doctors. These doctors must consult with outside experts and the Center for Disease Control (CDC) on best practices, particularly on mental health and malaria medications that can have serious long-term side effects. We also added important provisions on protection from sexual assault and harassment recommended by the Office of Special Counsel report released earlier this year.

When volunteers return home from their service with debilitating injuries and illnesses, they should not have to spend months dealing with bureaucratic red tape at the Department of Labor before receiving care. This bill will ensure they immediately receive the care they need and deserve.

These common sense changes will make a big difference in ensuring the safety and security of our volunteers. But this bill is just a first step in protecting our volunteers. I fought long and hard for a provision that unfortunately did not make it into the ANS before us today: to increase the disability payment provided to disabled returned volunteers so they can make ends meet.

I hope that this provision will one day become law. However, until then, the improvements in this bill are essential and valuable for our angels abroad.

A crucial provision that did make it in here was the extension of the authorization of the Sexual Assault Advisory Council for an additional 5 years. The Council was initially authorized by the Kate Puzey Act and serves to advise the Peace Corps on agency wide sexual assault policy. Without this important bill, the council's authority would lapse this year.

Peace Corps volunteers selflessly sacrifice years of their lives to help people they have never even met. Often in some of the most desolate, even dangerous, places of the world. They are the face of our country in places where America's shining beacon of hope and liberty may not always shine so bright. Their service to our country should not turn into a nightmare that ruins, or even ends their lives.

As a former judge, I can tell you that it is our duty to do everything within our power to protect our angels abroad. It's time to stand up and take action for our volunteers. They are some of the very best we have. Thank you again Chairman Royce and Ranking Member Engel. I look forward to this bill passing through this committee and going to the floor. And that's just the way it is.
