

Rick Jones is the Senior Technical Advisor for Latin America and the Caribbean for Catholic Relief Services (CRS) where he has lived for the past 29 years.

Based in El Salvador, Mr. Jones works closely with governments and the private sector on justice issues, migration, human rights, labor rights, youth employment, and youth violence. During the past 20 years with CRS, Mr. Jones has developed innovative approaches to combatting gang violence in Central America and developing youth employment and social entrepreneurship. In 2019 He co-led the development of CRS' Global Youth strategy to scale up employment programs.

His social entrepreneurship includes founding Enlace Financial Services, a microfinance institution in El Salvador that now serves 50,000 clients with a portfolio of more than $28 million. Mr. Jones has helped CRS develop programs to reduce violence and provide young people social and economic opportunity. He has provided expert testimony to the United States Congress on migration and violence in Central America.

Mr. Jones has a Masters in International Relations from The Johns Hopkins School for Advanced International Studies (SAIS) and a Bachelor of Arts in English Literature from Boston College.
