

Patrick Quirk, Ph.D., is Vice President for Strategy, Innovation, and Impact at the International Republican Institute (IRI). In this role, Dr. Quirk provides the leadership, management, and vision to ensure that IRI is addressing global challenges to democracy by developing innovative and evidence-based programs, tools, and resources. He leads IRI's organization-wide strategic planning as well as oversees institutional efforts on monitoring, evaluation, research, and learning (MERL).

Dr. Quirk also oversees the Center for Global Impact, the team of thematic experts, researchers, and global project staff who help IRI monitor and develop innovative approaches to priority technical areas—from countering China's authoritarian influence to strengthening political parties. Previously, he served as IRI's Senior Director for Strategy, Research, and the Center for Global Impact.

Concurrent to serving at IRI, Dr. Quirk is a Nonresident Senior Fellow in the Atlantic Council's Freedom and Prosperity Center and an Adjunct Professor at Georgetown University. From 2019-2021, he was a Nonresident Fellow in the Foreign Policy Program of the Brookings Institution.

Before joining IRI, Dr. Quirk served on the U.S. Secretary of State's Policy Planning staff in the Department of State, during the first Trump Administration, as the lead advisor for fragile states, conflict and stabilization, and foreign assistance. Prior to Policy Planning, he served in State's Bureau of Conflict and Stabilization Operations (CSO) as Senior Advisor for Policy and Strategy. In this capacity, he was the chief political scientist for and a lead author of the 2018 U.S. Stabilization Assistance Review (SAR). During his government service, Dr. Quirk received several Superior and Meritorious Honor Awards.

Prior to joining the Department of State, he was a Research Fellow at the German Marshall Fund as well as designed and implemented conflict prevention and democracy strengthening foreign assistance programs overseas. His book Great Powers, Weak States, and Insurgency: Explaining Internal Threat Alliances was published by Palgrave MacMillan Press in February 2017. Dr. Quirk's analysis has appeared in Foreign Policy, the Financial Times, the Los Angeles Times, the Wall Street Journal, NPR, and Real Clear Defense, among other outlets.

He earned a B.A. in Interdisciplinary Studies from Bates College and a Ph.D. in Political Science from Johns Hopkins University.
