

Elizabeth Richard is a Deputy Assistant Secretary in the State Department's Bureau of Near Eastern Affairs and the Coordinator for Foreign Assistance to the Near East. She oversees a foreign assistance budget of over seven billion dollars, ensuring that programs effectively advance U.S. policy. A career Foreign Service officer, she served as Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Sanaa, Yemen from 2010 to 2013. Previously, she was the Border Coordinator at the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan, synchronizing U.S. government efforts across the Pakistan-Afghanistan border. Earlier assignments included serving as Director of Counter-narcotics and Civilian Police Training programs in Afghanistan, Deputy to the Special Ambassador for War Crimes Issues in Washington, and Special Assistant to the Undersecretary for Political Affairs, responsible for political-military and non-proliferation issues. Her other overseas assignments included Rome, Italy, as the first U.S. exchange officer in the Italian Foreign Ministry and then as political officer at the U.S. Embassy. She has also served in Southeast Asia, including as Special Assistant to the Ambassador in Bangkok, Thailand.

She has a Master's degree in National Security Strategy from the National War College in Washington DC, and is a graduate of the NATO Defense College in Rome, Italy. She has undergraduate and law degrees from Southern Methodist University, and before joining the Foreign Service practiced admiralty law in Texas.