

BEHNAM BEN TALEBLU

Senior Fellow

Foundation for Defense of Democracies

Behnam Ben Taleblu is a senior fellow at FDD where he focuses on Iranian security and political issues. For over a decade, Behnam has supported FDD’s Iran work in various capacities, including as a research fellow and senior Iran analyst. Prior to his time at FDD, Behnam worked on non-proliferation issues at an arms control think-tank in Washington. Leveraging his subject-matter expertise and native Persian-language skills, Behnam closely tracks a wide range of Iran-related functional and regional topics including nuclear non-proliferation, ballistic missiles and drones, sanctions, the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps and its proxies, the foreign and security policy of the Islamic Republic, and internal Iranian politics. Frequently called upon to brief journalists, congressional staff, diplomatic, military, academic, and policy audiences in Washington, across the U.S., and around the world, Behnam has testified before the U.S. Congress and Canadian Parliament and provided oral and written evidence to the UK House of Commons’s Foreign Affairs Committee. Behnam is also a member of the Anti-Defamation League’s Task Force on Middle East Minorities.

His analysis has been quoted in The Washington Post, The Wall Street Journal, Reuters, Fox News, Associated Press, Agence France-Presse, Politico, and Axios, among others. Additionally, he has contributed to or coauthored articles for The Wall Street Journal, Foreign Affairs, Foreign Policy, Politico Europe, Fox News, The Hill, War on the Rocks, and The National Interest. Behnam has appeared on a variety of broadcast programs, including PBS Newshour, BBC News, Fox News, CBS News, C-SPAN, France 24, Deutsche Welle, and Defense News. Behnam earned his MA with Honors in International Relations from The University of Chicago, and his BA in International Affairs and Middle East Studies from The George Washington University’s Elliott School of International Affairs.
