

Nate Schenkkan is a Program Officer for Freedom House's Eurasia Programs, covering Turkey and Central Asia. He is a co-author of Freedom House's February 2014 special report Democracy in Crisis: Corruption, Media, and Power in Turkey. Prior to joining Freedom House, he worked as a journalist in Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan. His reporting and analysis has been published in Foreign Affairs Online, the Atlantic Online, Eurasianet, and World Politics Review. He holds a Master's degree in Russian and Eurasian Studies from Columbia University's Harriman Institute, where he was the 2010-2011 Pepsico Junior Fellow, the institute's most distinguished graduate student award.