

Dr. Gönül Tol is the founding director of The Middle East Institute's Center for Turkish Studies. She also teaches at George Washington University's Institute for Middle East Studies and writes a weekly column for the liberal Turkish daily Radikal. She was an adjunct professor at the College of International Security Affairs at the National Defense University. She has taught courses on Islamist movements in Western Europe, Turkey, world politics, and the Middle East. She has written extensively on Turkey-U.S. relations, Turkish domestic politics, and foreign policy and the Kurdish issue. She is a frequent media commentator.