

Biography

Peter Rough is a senior fellow and director of the Center on Europe and Eurasia at Hudson Institute. In that capacity, he writes and comments on US foreign policy and regularly briefs official delegations, news media, public intellectuals, academics, and business leaders from around the world.

Previously, as director of research in the Office of George W. Bush, Mr. Rough assisted the former president with his memoir, Decision Points. From 2007 to 2009, Mr. Rough served as associate director in the White House Office of Strategic Initiatives.

He has also completed stints as a policy analyst at the US Agency for International Development, where he was staff briefer to Administrator Henrietta Fore, and as an advisor to US Army Special Operations Command, where he analyzed unconventional warfare doctrine for the commanding general's Strategic Initiatives Group.

He is a member of the board of the Bastion Institute and the American Main Street Initiative and previously served as a commissioner of the Radio in the American Sector (RIAS) Commission in Berlin. Mr. Rough is also a member of the Friends of Ukraine Network's (FOUN) Task Force on National Security and vice chair of the Reagan Institute's Forum for American Leadership Europe group.

A native of Des Moines, Iowa, he received a BA, summa cum laude, from the George Washington University and an MA in law and diplomacy from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University, where he was a Cabot corporation scholar.

Mr. Rough is proficient in German.