

Nanythe Talani

Nanythe Talani is a human rights advocate and representative of the Torture Abolition and Survivors Support Coalition (TASSC). Previously, she was an investigative journalist for TerrAfrica, a French magazine, where she hosted training programs for UNESCO.

As a journalist trainer, Nanythe has traveled across her country, Congo-Brazzaville, to instruct community broadcasters. She has also taught college journalism and law at Institut Technique Professionnel (Brazzaville).

In addition, she is a writer and the author of "Coeur Ensablante," a poetry collection published at Edilivre (Paris, France), under the pen name "Futrell Atwater Lee."

Nanythe holds a Master's degree in Journalism and Bachelor's in African Literature and Civilisations from the Marien Ngouabi University.