

Bonnie Glick is the former Deputy Administrator/Chief Operating Officer of the U.S. Agency for International Development where she served from January 2019-November 2020 after her unanimous confirmation by the U.S. Senate. She oversaw the operations of the Agency with its $20+ billion budget and 11,000 staff in over 100 countries around the world. Issues she led ranged from 5G as a development priority to countering malign influence around the world to preventing sexual exploitation and abuse to addressing the global COVID-19 pandemic — and everything in between.

Bonnie Glick is currently a Senior Advisor at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, DC and a Fellow at the Harvard University Kennedy School of Government's Institute of Politics.

She speaks seven languages and has co-authored three patents.