

Kevin Wolf is a partner in the international trade group of the Akin law firm. He is also a non-resident Senior Fellow at Georgetown University's Center for Security and Emerging Technologies. In addition, he is an independent Special Compliance Officer monitoring a US company's implementation of a consent agreement regarding export control violations. He was the Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Export Administration at the Bureau of Industry and Security from 2010 to 2017. He has been an export control compliance attorney since 1993. He has a masters in public sector management and a law degree from the University of Minnesota.