

Tracey Lewis
Bio

Tracey Lewis is a policy counsel for Public Citizen's Climate Program, where she advocates for financial regulators to direct companies, banks, money managers, and other private actors to better identify and address the risks related to the climate crisis. Tracey has broad experience advising organizations on equity and environmental law and policy.

Tracey is also a fellow at the Climate & Community Project, based at the University of Pennsylvania McHarg Center, Weitzman School of Design. She has a JD with a concentration in international law from Vermont Law School.