

J. Mijin Cha is an Associate Professor of Urban and Environmental Policy at Occidental College and a Fellow at Cornell University's Worker Institute, where she works on the Labor Leading on Climate initiative. Dr. Cha is also a Member of the Climate and Community Project. Dr. Cha's research focuses on the intersection of climate change and inequality. Her recent research is on "just transition," how to transition workers and communities equitably into a low-carbon future. Dr. Cha is on the board of the Center on Race, Poverty, and the Environment and a member of the California Bar. She holds a B.S. from Cornell University, a J.D. from the University of California, Hastings, and LLM and PhD degrees from the University of London, SOAS.