

“The Taxpayers Protection Alliance is proud to support the D.C. Taxing Authority Review Act. The D.C. Council has responded to a billion-dollar budget hole not with spending discipline, but with a wish list of new taxes on the businesses and residents keeping the city afloat. Piling a new business activity tax and a passive income tax on top of D.C.'s already heavy tax burden will choke off investment and weaken the city's economy. Congress has both the authority and the responsibility to rein in this fiscal recklessness, and the D.C. Taxing Authority Review Act is a commonsense step in the right direction.”
