

Apryle Gladney Bio

Apryle M. Gladney is an associate vice chancellor in the Office of Human Resources for Washington University in St. Louis. She is responsible for recruitment, including the medical apprenticeship programs, and employee relations. Gladney has been employed at WashU since 2000.

She graduated from Saint Louis University with a degree in business administration with an emphasis in marketing and human resource management. Her first position after graduating was a human resources generalist at Edward Jones Investments. She then moved to the region's largest health care provider, BJC Healthcare, as the interim health center manager and human resources and organizational development consultant for the BJC Medical Group.

Gladney continued working in health care, next at Missouri Baptist Medical Center, and then at WashU's medical school. While employed with WashU, she has received the Senior Professional in Human Resources certification as well as her Senior Certified Professional designation from the Society of Human Resources Management. As well, Gladney is currently participating in the Wharton Executive Education's Chief Human Resources Officer program.
