

Joshua Smith

Josh T. Smith is the Energy Policy Lead at the Abundance Institute. His work is focused on creating energy abundance through energy innovation; he wants to create a future that moves swiftly up, rather than swiftly down. Josh is a visiting fellow at the Conservative Coalition for Climate Solutions (C3). Previous to this position, he directed research programs for the Center for Growth and Opportunity at Utah State University. His writing has been published in several national outlets including The Wall Street Journal and Newsweek. He graduated with a Master's in Economics from Utah State University in 2018.
