

Gerard Badorrek
Chief Financial Officer

Gerard Badorrek was named the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) of the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) on December 29, 2014. As the CFO, Mr. Badorrek leads a 600 person organization that is responsible for GSA's $21 billion budget and expenses, overall financial management, internal controls and audits, analytics and reporting, and performance management.

Mr. Badorrek has over 25 years of experience serving in public and private companies. Prior to joining GSA, he served as Senior Vice President at Xerox Corporation and held positions as a Managing Director of Business Process Solutions in the State Government Sector and COO of the State and Local Solutions Group. Mr. Badorrek was previously at MCI Communications for 20 years, where he served in a variety of leadership positions, including Vice President of Business Operations, Executive Director of Finance, Executive Director of Corporate Business Analysis, Director of Accounting and Financial Operations, and Director of Business Development and Analysis.

Mr. Badorrek has an MBA from the Graduate School of Business at Stanford University, an MA in Economics from Case Western Reserve University, and a BS in Operations Research and Industrial Engineering from Cornell University.