

Carolyn L. Yocom

In over 20 years at the Government Accountability Office (GAO), Carolyn Yocom has worked on health care issues related to low-income and vulnerable populations, particularly Medicaid and CHIP. Her most recent reports have focused on Medicaid program integrity issues, oversight and trends in Medicaid managed care, behavioral health, and Medicaid data systems. She also worked for the Government of the District of Columbia and began her career in the State of Oregon. She holds a bachelor's degree in English from Whitman College in Walla Walla, Washington, and a Master's in Business Administration from Willamette University in Salem, Oregon.