

Gabriel Rottman
Legislative Counsel/Policy Advisor
American Civil Liberties Union

Mr. Rottman currently services as legislative counsel/policy advisor for the American Civil Liberties Union, where he advocates in Congress, the White House and the federal agencies for the First Amendment rights of freedom of speech, press, assembly and petition. His portfolio includes issues as varied as mass media content regulation, telecommunications and internet law, intellectual property, national security and press freedom, academic freedom, political speech regulations, access to justice and criminal speech restrictions. This is his second tour at the ACLU. From 2001 to 2005, Mr. Rottman worked in the ACLU's Washington Legislative Office as a communications staffer and senior writer.

Mr. Rottman practiced law from 2007 to 2012 at Simpson Thacher & Bartlett in Washington, DC, with a particular emphasis on antitrust and foreign investment review. He has a joint honors B.A. from McGill University in political science and history and a J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center.
