Caitriona Fitzgerald
Deputy Director

Caitriona Fitzgerald is Deputy Director at the Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC).

Ms. Fitzgerald leads EPIC's policy work, working to advance strong privacy, open government, and algorithmic fairness and accountability laws at both the state and federal level. She recently authored Grading on a Curve: Privacy Legislation in the 116th Congress, which set out the key elements of a modern privacy law, including the creation of a U.S. Data Protection Agency.

Prior to joining EPIC, Ms. Fitzgerald served as Chief of Staff to Massachusetts State Senator Barry Finegold.

Ms. Fitzgerald received her J.D. from Northeastern University School of Law and earned her bachelor's degree in Computer Science from the State University of New York at Geneseo.
