

Brenda Wright is Senior Advisor for Legal Strategies at Demos. She has led many progressive legal and policy initiatives on voting rights, campaign finance reform, redistricting, election administration and other democracy and electoral reform issues. Her extensive experience in federal court litigation includes two arguments before the U.S. Supreme Court: Young v. Fordice, a Mississippi voting rights case; and Randall v. Sorrell, a Vermont campaign finance case. She has written extensively on democracy and voting rights issues in both popular and scholarly publications and appears frequently in print and broadcast media on these issues.

Before joining Demos in 2007, Brenda served as Managing Attorney at the National Voting Rights Institute in Boston. She also served previously as Director of the Voting Rights Project at the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law in Washington, D.C. She is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, the Board of Directors of Common Cause Massachusetts and the advisory board of the Prison Policy Initiative. She received her law degree from Yale Law School and her B.A. from Bryn Mawr College.