Assistant National Cyber Director (Workforce, Training & Education)

Seeyew Mo serves as the Assistant National Cyber Director for Workforce, Training and Education at the Office of National Cyber Director (ONCD). Seeyew led the development and leads and supports the implementation of the National Cyber Workforce and Education Strategy. In this role, he takes a holistic approach – doctrine, people, and technology – to achieving advancements in cyber workforce development and education. He has nearly two decades of experience in the intersection of cybersecurity, technology, and national security spanning both tech development and policymaking.

Prior to ONCD, Seeyew worked at the Office of U.S. Senator Mark Warner (D-VA) as a TechCongress Senior Fellow in Cybersecurity, Technology, and National Security. In that capacity, he worked on legislative efforts related to bolstering the cyber workforce, improving healthcare and public health cybersecurity, and on competition with China. Previously, among other roles, he led engineering teams at Salesforce to integrate cybersecurity features on mobile applications and began his professional career as a software engineer.

Seeyew holds a Master's in Public Administration from the Harvard Kennedy School, a Master's of Science in Engineering Management from Santa Clara University, and a Bachelor's of Science in Computer Science from the University of Wisconsin. He is fluent in Cantonese and Mandarin.
