

Courtney Litvak is a Survivor Leader, No Trafficking Zone Director of Survivor Initiatives, and recently completed her service as an Honorable Member of the U.S Advisory Council on Human Trafficking, appointed by former President Donald Trump in April, 2020-2023.

During her term she and fellow Honorables provided recommendations to the (PITF) to improve federal anti-trafficking policies. Other duties included consulting to the U.S. government, specifically the (SPOG) to strengthen survivor-led federal policy and programming efforts in the anti-trafficking field.

All members of the Council were tasked with producing and publishing an Annual Report that contained the findings derived from reviews conducted of federal government policy and programs.

As a subject matter expert, consultant, Director, and passionate advocate, Ms. Litvak also serves within the Survivor Consultant Network for the Department of Homeland Security, Blue Campaign.

In 2021 she joined Houston-based No Trafficking Zone (NTZ) where she serves as Director of Survivor Initiatives. Part of their work includes victim advocacy and collaborating with the HCSheriff's Office and other NGOs and survivors across the nation.

Being a survivor herself as she was exploited and trafficked at her own high school, Ms. Litvak and the NTZ team and wonderful allies help to develop and pass legislation to protect youth and students in every school district in Texas and across the country. Ms. Litvak has testified at the Texas Capitol, and No Trafficking Zone with the the grace of God, and other leaders passed SB-1831 in 2021 and HB-3553 and HB-3554 in 2023.
