

Anna Fendley is a Legislative Representative for the United Steelworkers'(USW) in Washington, DC. She works on a wide variety of issues related to health and safety, healthcare, and civil and human rights. Previously she worked in the USW's Health, Safety & Environment Department in Pittsburgh, PA. There she acted as an advocate and technical resource to the USW local unions on a variety of issues including chemical hazards, nanotechnology, ergonomics, and the dissemination of health and safety information. Anna earned her BS and MPH from Boston University.