Mordecai (Mo) Rosen
Senior Vice President and General Manager, Security Business Unit
CA Technologies

Mo Rosen joined CA Technologies in August 2015 after serving as Chief Operating Officer at Xceedium, a company recently acquired by CA, which develops privileged access management software. He previously founded Zero-G, Inc., a venture-management firm that invested in early-stage technology companies. Previously, Mo served as senior vice president of corporate development at NetSec. Mo was also senior vice president of marketing and business development at FTP Software, Inc. He has held executive-level positions in product marketing, management, and business development at MCI, Computer Associates, and Legent Corporation. He began his career in a variety of product and technology leadership roles at Lachman Technology, one of the original providers of Internet-communications software for the UNIX platform.

Mo holds a B.A. in Mathematics from the University of Illinois.