

DREW BAGLEY, ESQ.
Chief Privacy Officer
CrowdStrike

Drew Bagley, Esq. is CrowdStrike's Chief Privacy Officer, responsible for leading CrowdStrike's global data protection initiatives, privacy strategy and policy engagement. Mr. Bagley joined CrowdStrike more than a decade ago after working in the FBI's Office of General Counsel. He has been an advisor on CISA's JCDC, Europol's Advisory Group on Internet Security, the U.S. Department of State's International Digital Economy and Telecommunication Advisory Committee, and the DNS Abuse Institute's Advisory Council. He served on the ICANN CCT Review Team and the President's NSTAC Abuse of Domestic Infrastructure Subcommittee. Mr. Bagley, a former German Chancellor Fellow, teaches at American University and co-hosts the Start Here: Cyber Fundamentals for Policymakers podcast.