

Michael Robbins is President & Chief Executive Officer at the Association for Uncrewed Vehicle Systems International (AUVSI), the world's largest trade association for uncrewed systems, robotics, and autonomous technologies, representing companies in both the commercial and defense sectors. He joined AUVSI in 2020 and previously served as Chief Advocacy Officer. Michael is also presently serving as an Intelligence Officer in the United States Navy Reserve, currently serving The Joint Staff at the Pentagon.

Before joining AUVSI, Michael co-founded a business consulting firm, Intrepid, and served as its Chief Operating Officer. AUVSI was an Intrepid client. Prior to starting Intrepid, Michael was Managing Director of Government and Public Affairs at the Air Line Pilot Association, International (ALPA) where he oversaw the aviation safety and security, government affairs, and communications departments. Before ALPA, Michael spent a decade working for the late U.S. Congressman John D. Dingell (Michigan), where he served as the Chief of Staff.

Michael serves on the MITRE Corporation's Aviation Advisory Committee, the Federal Aviation Administration's (FAA) Aviation Cybersecurity Aviation Rulemaking Committee (ARC), and the National Advanced Mobility Consortium's (NAMC) Advisory Committee. He recently served as co-chair of the FAA's UAS Detection and Mitigation ARC. He previously served on the U.S. Department of Transportation's Aviation Supply Chain Risk Task Force, the Cybersecurity & Infrastructure Security Agency's Critical Infrastructure Partnership Advisory Council sUAS Security Working Group, and on the boards of NAMC and the Greater Washington Aviation Open.

Michael holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and a master's degree from Georgetown University.
