

Sandra Joyce

VP, Google Threat Intelligence

Sandra is a cybersecurity leader with 27 years of intelligence experience. She leads Google Threat Intelligence following Google's acquisition of Mandiant in 2022.

Sandra is a retired U.S. Air Force Reserve officer and serves as a faculty member and on the Board of Visitors at the National Intelligence University. She is a Co-Chair of the Aspen Institute U.S. Cybersecurity Group, a member of the strategic council of the Silverado Policy Accelerator, and the Institute for Security and Technology's Ransomware Task Force Steering Committee, a visiting fellow at the National Security Institute, and serves on the Board of Directors at Crane NXT.

Sandra is pursuing her PhD at Johns Hopkins University as an Alperovitch Institute Fellow. She has an MBA from MIT and holds four additional master's degrees in cyber-policy, international affairs, science and technology intelligence, and military operational art and science. Sandra speaks English, Spanish, and German.