

Chris P. Currie

Chris Currie is a Director in the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO) Homeland Security and Justice team. He is responsible for leading GAO's work on disaster preparedness, response, and recovery; Biodefense; and Department of Homeland Security agency-wide reviews. Chris has been at GAO since 2002 and led numerous audits and assessments of Homeland Security issues. This included work related to transportation security, research and development of new technologies, and the Department's efforts to test and evaluate large acquisition programs and technologies and has watched that department grow and mature over that time. He holds an M.A. in public administration from Georgia State University and a B.A. in history from the University of Georgia.