

The Internet Association

Michael Beckerman

President and CEO of The Internet Association

About The Internet Association: Founded in July 2012, The Internet Association is the unified voice of the Internet economy representing the interests of the leading Internet companies including: Airbnb, Amazon.com, AOL, eBay, Expedia, Facebook, Google, IAC, LinkedIn, Monster Worldwide, Path, Rackspace, salesforce.com, SurveyMonkey, TripAdvisor, Yahoo!, and Zynga.

The Internet Association is dedicated to advancing public policy solutions to strengthen and protect Internet freedom, foster innovation and economic development, and empower users. The Internet Association is headquartered in Washington, D.C.

About Michael Beckerman: Michael Beckerman is the President and CEO of The Internet Association, the unified voice of the Internet economy in the nation's capital, representing some of the most well-known global Internet brands.

Prior to his appointment as CEO, Beckerman served 12 years as a top congressional staff member, serving as the Deputy Staff Director and chief policy advisor to the Chairman of the U.S. House Committee on Energy and Commerce, which oversees America's Internet policies.

Beckerman was recently named "Tech Titan" by The Washingtonian. He is quoted regularly in print publications such as Politico and National Journal, has appeared as a guest on multiple national radio networks and has been featured on Bloomberg TV's "First Up."

The Internet Association

Michael Beckerman

President and CEO of The Internet Association

About The Internet Association: Founded in July 2012, The Internet Association is the unified voice of the Internet economy representing the interests of the leading Internet companies including: Airbnb, Amazon.com, AOL, eBay, Expedia, Facebook, Google, IAC, LinkedIn, Monster Worldwide, Path, Rackspace, salesforce.com, SurveyMonkey, TripAdvisor, Yahoo!, and Zynga.

The Internet Association is dedicated to advancing public policy solutions to strengthen and protect Internet freedom, foster innovation and economic development, and empower users. The Internet Association is headquartered in Washington, D.C.

About Michael Beckerman: Michael Beckerman is the President and CEO of The Internet Association, the unified voice of the Internet economy in the nation's capital, representing some of the most well-known global Internet brands.

Prior to his appointment as CEO, Beckerman served 12 years as a top congressional staff member, serving as the Deputy Staff Director and chief policy advisor to the Chairman of the U.S. House Committee on Energy and Commerce, which oversees America's Internet policies.

Beckerman was recently named "Tech Titan" by The Washingtonian. He is quoted regularly in print publications such as Politico and National Journal, has appeared as a guest on multiple national radio networks and has been featured on Bloomberg TV's "First Up."