

WILLIAM T. WOODS

Bill Woods is a Director with the Acquisition and Sourcing Management team at the U. S. Government Accountability Office (GAO). He provides overall direction for GAO's reviews of contracting activities at defense and civilian agencies. Since joining GAO in 1981, Bill has worked with the agency's evaluators on a broad range of subjects, including major systems acquisitions, small business and health care issues, and procurement reform legislation.

Prior to assuming his current position, Bill served as Assistant General Counsel in GAO's Office of General Counsel. Bill has extensive experience drafting bid protest decisions at GAO. In addition, Bill was the Project Director for the Commercial Activities Panel, a group commissioned by the Congress to review the procedures for determining whether commercially available services should be performed by federal workers or by contractors.

Some of Bill's writings have appeared in The Procurement Lawyer, a quarterly publication of the American Bar Association's Public Contract Law Section. Bill is a former co-chair of the Section's Commercial Products and Services Committee.

Bill is a 1973 graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. In 1981, he received a J.D. degree from the University of Baltimore School of Law, where he served as legislation editor on the Law Review. He earned a Master of Laws degree from the Georgetown University Law Center in 1988.
