Attachment—Additional Questions for the Record

The Honorable Ben Ray Luján

1. The appearance of a handful of Ebola cases in the United States demonstrates the importance of robust investments in our nation's public health infrastructure. Unfortunately, the National Institutes of Health's budget has been largely flat for years. In addition, we've seen cuts to the Center for Disease Control and the Department of Health and Human Services' Hospital Preparedness program. Can each of you discuss if budget cuts have had any impact on our response to the Ebola outbreak in West Africa or impacted the handling of the cases here in the United States?

The Honorable Paul Tonko

1. By all accounts, the FDA has worked at an unprecedented speed to aid in bringing an Ebola vaccine to market. Instead of lengthy reviews taking months or years, the potential treatments have cleared FDA hurdles in days. Given the urgency of this need, is there anything else that Congress can do to support this critical mission?
