Michael Atkinson
President and CEO
Alstom Grid North America

Michael Atkinson joined Alstom Grid in 2006 as Managing Director for the Network Management Solutions business and became Vice President for the Americas and China in June 2008. In April 2012, Michael was appointed to President and CEO of Alstom Grid North America. He is responsible for leading the regional business, including eight sites and over 1800 employees, and providing North America customers reliable products, services and integrated energy management solutions from power generation through transmission and distribution grids. Whether for utilities or electro-intensive industries or facilitating the trading of energy, Alstom Grid brings power to its customers' projects.

Michael joined Alstom with over 20 years of people and project management experience. Prior to joining Alstom, he worked for Aspen Technology in the engineering software field. Throughout his career at Aspen Technology, he held positions of increased responsibility in business consulting, product marketing and product management. Michael also spent 15 years in the engineering and construction industry, including ten years at Fluor Corporation, involved in all phases of large-scale project management and execution.

Michael earned an MBA from Clemson University in Clemson, South Carolina and a bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering from Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, VA. He is also a registered Professional Engineer.

He currently resides in Redmond, WA with his wife and three children.
