

Bill Murray
President and CEO
Medical Device Innovation Consortium

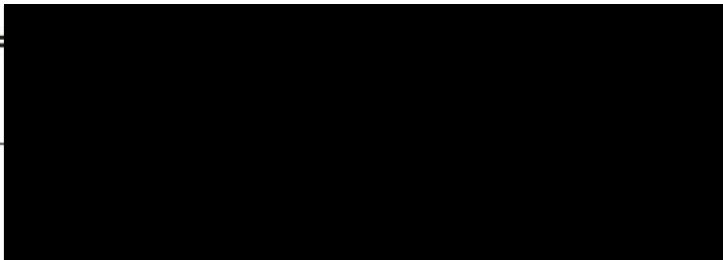

Bill joined MDIC in August of 2013 as the first President and CEO. He has over 25 years of senior leadership experience spanning the range of privately financed start-up to billion dollar plus global businesses. Prior to MDIC, Bill held leadership positions as CEO of Envoy Medical, a privately financed commercial stage medical device company and as Interim President and CEO of MTS Systems (MTSC), a public $500M industrial technology company.

Bill's small company experience spans 5 years as CEO and executive consultant to privately financed start-up medical device companies. His large company experience includes leadership as the Molecular Biology Division President of Applied Biosystems, and at Medtronic where he spent nearly 20 years in various senior leadership positions, including President of the Pacemaker Business. Bill currently serves on the Board of MDIC and previously served on the Boards of MTS Systems, LifeSync Holdings, and ReShape Medical. Bill has also served on various industry association and community leadership boards. He earned a Bachelor of Science Degree in Electrical Engineering from The University of Florida.
