Office of Audit Services

John Hagg is the Director of Medicaid Audits with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), Office of Inspector General (OIG), Office of Audit Services (OAS). He has been with OIG, in various roles, for nearly 26 years.

John graduated from the University of Dayton, located in Dayton, Ohio, in 1989 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting. Upon graduation, he began his career with the OIG as an auditor in the Boston, Massachusetts Regional Office. Later, he transferred to the OIG Columbus, Ohio Field Office where he served as a Senior Auditor responsible for health care audits. In November 1999, he was promoted to Audit Manager at the OIG Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Audits located in Baltimore, Maryland. Since April 2004, John has served as the Director of Medicaid Audits and is responsible leading OIG audit work involving the Medicaid program. In this role, John is involved with helping to determine high risk areas within the Medicaid program, and developing a national Medicaid audit work plan that focuses on detecting and preventing fraud, waste, and abuse. Annually, the Medicaid work plan produces around 70 audit reports that identify hundreds of millions in unallowable Medicaid payments.

John has been the recipient of the Secretary's Award for Distinguished Service for outstanding accomplishments in addressing concerns involving States' use of upper payment limits that threatened the stability of the Medicaid program. He has also been awarded the Inspector General's Bronze Medal for Outstanding Employee of the Year. In addition, John has received numerous awards in recognition of substantial audit contributions, as well as letters of appreciation citing excellence in audit performance.

John is originally from the State of West Virginia. He has been married for seventeen years and is the proud father of two children.
